THE BACK AND THE BOTTOM.

That's where the integrity of a piece of furniture lies—not so much in the pretty parts that face out, as in the hidden parts that do the holding together. Just compare these inside parts of 'Titus' furniture with that you see elsewhere, you'll quickly see the difference.

BUREAU VALUES.

Here's one little mahogany bureau that tells the whole story of forty others that stand beside it—every line is graceful as can be, beautifully grained mahogany all over and inside—as clean as a whistle, good heavy stock, every joint smooth and perfectly fitted, no cabinet maker could do better and yet it's but $18.00

NEGRO EDUCATOR VICTIM OF ASSAULT

Booker T. Washington Attacked in New York.

Assailant, White Man, Says He Acted Within His Rights.

NEW YORK, March 20.—Dr. Booker T. Washington was not able to appear in court today, because of the injuries he received last night, according to the statement of his attorney, and the hearing of the charge against Albert Ulrich, the carpenter arrested last night on his complaint of felonious assault, was postponed until tomorrow. Ulrich was held in $1,500 bail.

Ulrich, a white man, maintains today that he was acting within his rights when he pursued the negro educator for several blocks before a policeman appeared. Ignorant of the negro's identity he declared that his wife had complained to him of a negro she had met in the hallway of their flat house in West Sixty-Third street. Mr. Washington, who was sent to Flower Hospital, where 16 stitches were taken in his scalp, asserted that his mission to that neighborhood was perfectly legitimate and that he had been made the innocent victim of a most atrocious assault. Attorney Smith, who represented Dr. Washington, told Magistrate Cornell that his client had 11 wounds and that one of the wounds had caused hemorrhage of the ear. A short affidavit was then made by Policeman Tierney, who brought Ulrich to court, and on this the prisoner was held. A bond was furnished for Ulrich's appearance in court, by Charles Ludwig, and he was then released.

Mr. Washington, who went to his apartments at the Hotel Manhattan, after having his wounds dressed, told the police that he had received a letter from his secretary saying that D. C. Smith, the auditor of Tuskegee College, of which he is the head, was in New York city, and desired to see him. "This letter said Mr. Smith was stopping with a cousin, giving the name and address," said Dr. Washington. "Sunday I attended church services twice and after speaking at one church in the evening. I recalled the letter concerning Smith and decided to look him up, but I discovered that I had left the letter in other clothes at the hotel, but I thought I could recall the name as something like Moore and the address as being in West Sixty-Third street. I went there and commenced to look at the name plates on the letter boxes in the halls of the different houses, seeking the name of Mr. Smith's cousin. It was while thus engaged that I was attacked."

Ulrich, in an interview with his lawyers and others in court today said, "About 9 o'clock last night my wife took one of our dogs out into the street. We lived on the ground floor of the house 113½ West Sixty-third street. When she returned she said she had seen a negro in the hall and that he spoke to her. Mr. and Mrs. Ravette and Mrs. Knowles, friends of ours, were in the house at the time. I went out and saw a man in the hall. He went out of the vestibule door ahead of me when I came out." Ulrich said he saw the negro re-enter the hallway and later saw him "Bending down at my door, peering through the keyhole." Ulrich said the negro swung a blow at his jaw when he asked him what he was doing and that then he went after the negro, who fell twice in his efforts to escape.

FOR CONGRESSMAN CAPRON.

Large Number of Prominent Officials Attend His Funeral.

SMITHFIELD, March 20.—Men prominent in the political life of the state and many leading business and professional friends of former Congressman Adin Ballou Capron attended the funeral at Stillwater this afternoon of the man who for 11 consecutive years represented his section of the state in Congress. The exercises were marked by the quietness and unostentatiousness which characterized his career and were conducted by Rev. V. E. Tomlinson of Worcester, Mass., formerly pastor of the Georgiaville Universalist Church, which the deceased attended. Delegations from both branches of the General Assembly and from the Grand Army of the Republic, of which Mr. Capron was a member and supporter in Congress, were present. The legislative committee included Senators Gorton of Pawtucket, Bowen of Warwick and Monroe of Providence; Representatives Davis of Glocester, Burchard of Little Compton, Beeckman of Newport, Cutler and Baldwin of Providence.

After the exercises at the house of Mr. Capron's son, John Mowry Capron, the body was placed on a special train and taken to Providence, where the interment was at Swan Point cemetery. The burial ceremonies were brief and simple and were attended only by members of his family and a few of his close personal friends, including Governor Aram J. Pothier, General Treasurer Walter A. Read, William Tyler Page, Mr. Capron's private secretary; Congressman George H. Utter of Westerly and former Congressman William P. Sheffield of Newport.

Among those present at the funeral exercises were United States Senator Brandegee and Congressman Edwin Higgins of Connecticut. The bearers were Mr. Capron's two sons and five nephews. The floral tributes were unusually beautiful and numerous, filling three sides of a room from floor to ceiling.

END OF STRIKE IN SIGHT.

No Disorder Among the Express Company Employes in New York.

NEW YORK, March 20.—There was no disorder among the express company strikers today and officials of the Adams, Wells Fargo and United States Express Companies declared the end of the strike was in sight. Thirty-five strikers offered to return to work in Jersey City today, but the United States Express Company said their services were not needed. The police are still guarding some of the express wagons.

STEAMER ARRIVED.

New York, March 20, Cincinnati from Naples.

FIRST SERIOUS DISTURBANCE.

Colorado on the Sonora Railroad, in Mexico, Captured by Rebels.

GUAYAMAS, Mexico, March 20.—Passengers arriving today on the Southern Pacific reported that Colorado, on the Sonora Railroad between Torres and Prieta, 70 miles southeast of Hermosillo, had been captured by 400 rebels, headed by Jesus Rovera. Traffic on the Southern Pacific has been interrupted by the burning of bridges between Corral and San Blaz, in Sinulo. This is the first serious disturbance reported in this vicinity.

BLANCO PROCEEDS SOUTH.

Madero and Orozco With 1,200 Rebels, Near Ojo De La Guana.

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, March 20.—Francisco I. Madero and General Orozco, with 1,200 rebels, are reported to be at Ojo De La Guana, 50 miles north of Chihuahua. Raoul Madero and Garibaldi are with them. Francisco Madero is suffering from a slight wound in the hand, it is said. General Villa, with 500 men, is near Terrazas station. General Blanco is coming south with his force, and it is thought the next battle may be fought not far north of Chihuahua. General Rabago and his federals are at La Guana station, less than five miles from Orozco.

WILL ASSIST GOVERNMENT.

Limantour Says Mexicans Can Adjust Trouble Satisfactorily.

SAN LUIS POTOSI, Mexico, March 20.—Minister Limantour told an Associated Press reporter, before leaving here yesterday, that he had the utmost faith in the ability of the Mexican people to adjust their present trouble satisfactorily. "I believe those people in the north can be made to see that they are wrong," he said. He also said he was returning to assume his post as minister of finance. "I am returning to do whatever I can to assist the government," he said.

SITUATION MAY SOON CLEAR.

Limantour's Mission May Have Bearing on Destinies of Troops.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 20.—Officers and men alike at the army maneuvres camp were eager readers of the news from Washington and Mexico today, seeking for straws to reveal how the wind of affairs is blowing. It is generally conceded that whatever Minister Limantour's mission to Mexico may be, it has a vital bearing on the destinies of the troops here. Events this week are expected to clear the situation considerably.

ARRIVES AT MEXICO CITY.

Senor Limantour Warmly Greeted by Foreign Minister Creel.

MEXICO CITY, March 20.—Finance Minister Limantour arrived here at 10 o'clock this morning. A great crowd awaited him at the railway station. President Diaz was not present. Senor Limantour did not stop in the city but went from the train direct to his suburban home.

If Senor Limantour purposed to avoid any demonstration his plans failed, as the railway station was crowded with a number of officials and delegations of citizens. The latter hailed the minister as "The saviour of the country."

Foreign Minister Creel stood at the entrance to the train shed and greeted Senor Limantour warmly. On the way from the station to the waiting automobile he stopped several times to listen to addresses by students, workingmen and others.

READY FOR FIELD SERVICE.

Brigadier General Mills's Coast Artillerymen Prepared for Tests.

GALVESTON, Texas, March 20.—Brigadier General Mills's brigade of coast artillery, mobilized here as infantry, is ready for field service or manoeuvres. All tents are pitched, and the men thoroughly dried out from Saturday night's rain. Newcomers will be permitted a day's rest before beginning regimental drill. Major George H. Gozman, chief sanitary officer on General Mills's staff, received orders last night to proceed at once to Japan. He is one of three officers appointed to spend three years in the Orient, for the specific purpose of studying special diseases. His successor has not been named.

Captain A. D. Lathrop of transport Sumner has returned to Newport News by rail, to take command of transport Meade, which, it is said, will be placed in commission and made ready for any further movement of troops.

At present there is no thought of breaking the big camp at San Antonio. The Secretary of War was in communication with General Carter on that subject this morning. Various organizations will be sent out on practice marches from time to time, and for manoeuvres in the field, but no general forward movement has been ordered or is contemplated at this time. President Taft today will have a conference with the Mexican ambassador, Senor De La Barra, at the latter's request.

Secretary Fisher, of the Department of the Interior, spent some time with the President today going over the matters of his department.

CONDITIONS HOSTILE TO THEM.

The Mexican Insurrection No Place for American Boys or Men.

EL PASO, Texas, March 20.—"The Mexican insurrection is no place for American boys or American men. Conditions are all hostile to them. The federal troops will show them little mercy and the insurrectos don't care whether the Americans are killed or not," H. C. Converse of Glendora, Cal., made this statement today, after a visit to the jail at Juarez, Mexico, where his son, Lawrence, 21 years old, together with Edwin Blatt of Pittsburg, Pa., is confined on a charge of participating in the insurrection. "Since the State Department of the United States has made representations to Mexico City that the boys were captured on the American side of the boundary," Mr. Converse said, "the boys are being better treated. They are now allowed to receive food sent from the outside."

Mr. Converse expects the prisoners will soon be released. Another American prisoner is in the Juarez jail. Richard Brown of El Paso, who declares he was arrested while helping the wounded near Juarez. So far as known here, the State Department has made no representations to Mexico in Brown's case.

MANY DISASTERS ON THE ATLANTIC.

Accidents to 100 Vessels in Past Six Months.

Fully 125 Persons Perish in Wrecks of Shipping.

BOSTON, March 20.—Fully 125 persons perished in accidents which befel New England, Canadian and Newfoundland vessels, or other craft which met with disaster in western upper North Atlantic waters during the fall and winter season now ending. It is impossible to announce the exact number of lives lost, as a missing Gloucester schooner, the Ella M. Goodwin, with her crew of 10 men, may be yet afloat in northern ice fields, and its statistics of lost Newfoundland fishermen are incomplete. In all 100 vessels were ashore, sunk, abandoned, burned or in collision during the past six months. Of the number 73 were schooners; 7, steamers; 7, barges; 3, barkentines; 2, barks; 2, brigantines; 2, tugs, and one a $25,000 auxiliary steam yacht and one a power boat. Sixty-five of the 100 were total wrecks, the majority hailing from New England ports. The loss of life on stranded vessels was greatest on the Massachusetts and Newfoundland coasts. The maritime provinces were remarkably free from fatalities, although many natives of that section of Canada were lost in wrecks elsewhere or perished on several craft long posted as "missing." The combined financial loss is estimated at nearly $1,000,000.

The most tragic disaster occurred on Peaked Hill bars, Cape Cod, January 10, when the Philadelphia barges Trevorton, Pine Forest and Corbin were lost, 17 men perishing. The crew of the Pine Forest sacrificed their lives needlessly in an attempt to row to the beach through the giant breakers. Had they remained on board they would have been safe, as the Pine Forest held together for several days. October 25, twenty-five persons were drowned when steamer Regulus was ground to pieces by the rocks near St. John's, Newfoundland.

The grim death list of the fall season was further swelled December 15-16, when half a dozen schooners and several barges were wrecked in a gale which raged with exceptional violence along the Cape Cod shore and Nantucket shoals. During this storm the United States revenue cutter Gresham, stationed at Boston, distinguished herself by rescuing several shipwrecked crews at great peril to her own men, and by floating a number of stranded craft. Revenue cutter Androscoggin and Acushnet, like the Gresham, were active throughout the stormy period of the fall and winter and also aided many distressed mariners. Among the life savers, the Cape Cod, Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket stations were the most active during the gales of December and January.

During the season three vessels were in difficulties in the far north—Norwegian steamer Adria, Parrsboro, N. S., bark Alkaline and the Canadian government schooner Jeanie. The steamer was wrecked on the southern coast of Iceland in late December. The list of 18 of her crew who perished are not included in the figures before given. Bark Alkaline left Fvigent, Greenland, October 10 for Philadelphia, but she never reached her destination. October 25 a storm of hurricane proportions forced her to seek shelter in the harbor of Arsuk, South Greenland, where she was frozen in and will probably remain imprisoned until May or June. Northern Hudson bay was the scene of the wreck last fall of schooner Jeanie which carried a scientific expedition, headed by Professor J. L. McConn. The scientists, 16 in number, and the crew escaped, but lost their personal property. After they reached land and were supplied with food by Eskimos, a broken life boat was repaired and in this they made their way to Fullerton. Captain Bartlett of the Jeanie is a brother of the commander of the Peary polar expedition.

Whaling schooner A. T. Gifford which was in winter quarters at Fullerton took them to Fort Churchill, whence, December 5, the party started through deep snow on foot for Norway House. They arrived home after a 1,100-mile tramp in a temperature which registered at times 60 degrees below zero. The Jennie was the vessel used by Harry Whitney of New Haven in his Arctic expedition.

An unusual occurrence during a heavy storm November 21 was the death by drowning of Robert Tupper of Round Hill, N. S. Tupper and Miss Daisy Syda of Digby, N. S., had just been married and boarded the steamer Yarmouth at St. John on their way to Digby. While Tupper was talking to a friend on deck a great sea swept the ship and carried him to his death, almost in sight of his bride.

Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, the benefactor of Labrador, figured in an incident of the sea last fall. He discovered a sunken schooner, the Lavonia, on the Labrador coast. He reported the wreck to the government, which after investigating the case, arrested the owners and the captain for scuttling the craft.

The rescue of the crew of Norwegian bkn. N. S. December 2 by two fishermen bark Petra wrecked near Cape Sable, men of West Tennant was one of the notable acts of heroism of the season. The rescuers were Ephraim Marlatt and his son, Hiram.

Some hope is still entertained that the 10 men who sailed from Bay of Islands, N. F., on the Gloucester schooner Ella M. Goodwin for home January 21 are safe. A vessel believed to be the Goodwin was sighted in a dense ice field in the northerly part of the Gulf of St. Lawrence several days after she sailed. If the Goodwin is still afloat she will not be released, probably before April 15. As the men have a cargo of fish, and seals abound at this season, they would not starve. The Newfoundland sealing fleet which left St. John's March 13 on its annual hunt, will watch for the Goodwin. Several of the sealing steamers are equipped with the wireless telegraph and can communicate with Cape Race or Cape Ray. The crew of the Goodwin are mainly Nova Scotians.

Among well know vessels whose names disappeared from the marine register were schooners Marcus Edwards of Bangor, Mollie Rhodes of Vinal Haven, Me., S. A. Downes of Gloucester, N. S., Preference (British) Frank T. Stinson of Portland, William

A good corset is a necessary requisite to every woman but there are many styles of corsets, some good, some bad, and there are just as many different figures so that the problem of buying the right corset becomes a complex one. We have overcome this by carrying every leading make and up-to-date styles such as those given above and we are confident we can fit every figure. Everyone of these different makes embody some necessary and exclusive features and all are intended to give that grace and suppleness which so becomes the average figure. Be the figure too stout or slender makes not a whit of difference because any one of these different makes will overcome these faults. The newest models are here and are mostly designed to give the slim effect to the figure.

PROPOSALS OF PEACE.

Minister Limantour Announced to be Bearer of Messages.

NEW YORK, March 18.—The Mexican vice consul here, Manuel Esteva, made a statement to the press today, in which he unexpectedly confirms the understanding that Senor Limantour, the Mexican minister of finance, is the bearer of important proposals from the insurrectos to the administration.

"Permit me to say," he urges, "that it seems to me a great mistake for the newspapers to print from day to day rumors from the Texas border as to whether Mr. Limantour will be permitted to make the journey safely across Mexico. He is returning to Mexico with important plans with respect to reforms and the general improvement of the country."

As a matter of fact, it is known that the members of the Madero family here have advised Francisco I. Madero, provisional insurrector president, not to block Senor Limantour's journey.

JOHN HAYS HAMMOND NAMED.

A Co-Defendant With Others in Suit Filed by Daniel Sully.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—John Hays Hammond, special ambassador of the United States to the coronation of King George of England, and a wealthy mine expert, was made co-defendant with his son and five others in a suit for $1,500,000 damages filed by Daniel J. Sully of New York in the supreme court of the district of Columbia today. Named as defendants are Harris Hammond, Frank S. Bright, Ralph B. Atherton, John P. Miller, William W. Baldwin and G. Scott Dalgish.

Mr. Sully who was formerly known as the "cotton king" charged a conspiracy to ruin his reputation and character as an international cotton expert and to deprive him of large profits in connection with the General Cotton Securities Company.

MIDDLETOWN.

Bishop Perry Administers Rite of Confirmation at the Berkeley Memorial Chapel.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

The rite of confirmation was administered Sunday morning at St. Columba's, the Berkeley Memorial Chapel, by the bishop of the diocese, Rt. Rev. James De Wolf Perry. The pretty little church was filled with an unusually large congregation, extra chairs having been placed down the centre aisle and many standing at the rear of the chapel. A class of 22 candidates was presented by the rector, Rev. Latta Griswold. These included two young women, several young men of the parish, and a large number from St. George's School.

Contrary to a former custom of speaking to the young people after the laying on of hands, the bishop addressed them as soon as they were assembled at the chancel rail. His words were full of encouragement as he showed them the path they were to take—that of renunciation, obedience, sacrifice, in the service of God, and bade them accept it with courage and entire faith, with no fears.

The bishop took as his text a portion of St. Matthew IX: 18: "Behold, there came a certain ruler, and worshipped Him." There was a celebration of the Holy Eucharist, Rev. Mr. Griswold assisting the bishop.

The altar was embowered in white carnations and calla lilies, with a delicate background of green vines interspersed with small branches of palm. Large potted palms and potted flowering calla lilies were arranged on either side of the altar.

During the service the vested choir from St. George's School gave the full choral Communion service by Crickshank. The offertory, which was for foreign missions, was $60.00.

Bishop Perry, who was heard here for the first time, held the close attention of his congregation. His manner was sympathetic friendly; his voice distinct, impressive, his address concise, forceful.

Contrary to the usual custom of holding the meetings of the Newport County Pomona Grange once in two months, a meeting will be held in March with Aquidneck Grange, for the purpose of completing the installation of officers. The severe snowstorm in February prevented a full attendance of the officers. Past Deputy F. W. C. Almy of Tiverton will be the installing officer. Dinner will be served by the entertaining Grange. The afternoon lecture's hour, which is open to the public, will include an address by Helen B. Thompson, professor of home economics at Kingston College, on "Vital Needs and Their Satisfaction."

Miss Baurn of East Providence, the new assistant teacher at the Peabody school, arrived Sunday and is located with Mrs. Ida Calvert in Green End avenue.

Mr. Arnold Smith is due to arrive today from Florida. Mr. and Mrs. W. Clarence Peckham expect to start for Middletown March 31. Miss Ellen Smith and Mrs. Elma May Peckham are planning to return in April. They expect to make many short stops on the return trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Abial Davis of Providence were in town Sunday, visiting relatives.

Professor Thompson Blood of Boston, entertainer, has been secured by the Young Men's Republican Club for their ladies' night. This will be Professor Blood's third appearance in Middletown, where his programs have met with appreciation. Dancing and a collation will follow the entertainment.

A post card shower was tendered "Aunt Sallie" Sherman of Newport today by her friends and former neighbors in Middletown, the occasion being her eighty-ninth birthday.

There was no evening service at the Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday, on account of the heavy rain.

Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Delamater are planning to ship a portion of their goods this week to West Bridgewater, Mass., but do not expect to leave Middletown until March 29.

Mr. Wallace Farnum left Saturday for Peru, Vt., to assist his son, Mr. Joseph Elbridge Farnum in "sugaring off" the spring flow of maple sap. Mr. Joseph Farnum met with a bad accident to one of his eyes about a month ago, and although in a fair way to recovery, is not able to complete his full round of duties yet.

A bag, containing among other articles a considerable sum of money, was found the morning after it was lost by a Portuguese, who returned it to relatives of the owner. It was ground into the mud and the bills water-soaked.

Carriages and automobiles experienced considerable difficulty in reaching the Berkeley Chapel Sunday by way of Purgatory road and Indian avenue, owing to the heavy mud.

WALKER DECISION HELD.

dence to disprove the integrity of the copy which Mrs. Walker made of the Corcoran letter. After such a letter he continues to correspond with Miss Corcoran and visits her clandestinely. He went once in three weeks from Newport to Boston. He was continuing his relations with this woman. The kind of housekeeper he had in Charleston is shown in this case. The children now are healthy and happy.

Mr. Walker's finances are not told. His relatives are in no condition to give the children the care they need. The children would be prejudiced against their mother, who has given her life for them. Mr. Walker is not a hasty-tempered man; he's a mean-tempered man, a bad-tempered man. The leather thongs on the whip were worn on the ends. Mr. Walker himself says he notes no change in the attitude of the children to him since they have been with their mother.

His treatment shows he has no appreciation of Mrs. Walker's sacrifices. If he had been any kind of a man she would have kept the home together. His mother's words of reproof show what he was; had he heeded them, this case would never have been brought.

His conduct is not that of an average New England father; any wife worth a son would resent it. She appealed to him not to scatter the children, and he said if she opposed it he would have her put in an insane asylum. He says it was a joke. He is not much of a joker. Mr. Walker might take the children out of this court's jurisdiction.

"Family history!" said Mr. Sheffield. "I could have asked questions that would have brought tears to the eyes of the other side." He had yet to see any evidence that Mrs. Walker had failed to do all that a wife could do, and held on fast as long as it was possible. The feeling of the people on the other is shown. Ferguson's party, after the Corcoran letter, recounted when his wife was not well, is a specimen of Mr. Walker's acts.

These children need moral training, and training which will fit them for different family life.

Mr. Sheffield said the moral training of the children must be from the mother; they might be often with their father to receive whatever might be desirable in other directions.

The court said the children had visited him and he had talked with them. They are bright and attractive children. This added to his great regret that it will be necessary for this court to make a decision in the case.

The court said that if there is any reasonable prospect of a reconciliation it would better be brought about before there is a decision. The parties know if it is possible for them to make some arrangement for a "modus vivendi." If they cannot agree, then the court must act.

Mr. Barney said his side was ready to make any sacrifice. Mr. Sheffield said his side had always been ready, but Mr. Walker had never made any proposition.

At 4:12 the court adjourned to 9:30 a. m. Monday.

CHANGES IN BEACONS.

New Breakwater Range Lights on East Coast of Block Island to be Established Soon.

Certain notable changes in the breakwater range lights on the easterly coast of Block Island are to be made about April 15, according to the notice just sent out by the bureau of lighthouses, Department of Commerce and Labor. The changes are as follows:

The front light, to be established, will be a fixed white post-lantern light, 12 feet above water, on white post, with ladder, and shelf for lantern, on the easterly end of the westerly breakwater and the fixed white light now maintained by the United States engineers at this point will be then discontinued. The rear light (which is the front light of the present range) will be then about 700 feet in rear of new front light. It will be a fixed white post-lantern, light 25 feet above water, on white post, with ladder, and shelf for lantern, on extremity of the government pier, westerly side of entrance into Basin harbor.

The present rear light, on land back of Basin harbor, will then be discontinued.

FUNERAL OF MACY A BALL.

The funeral of Macy A. Ball, late proprietor of the Newman Hotel, Providence, took place Sunday at the Central Baptist Chapel, Block Island. Rev. Horace A. Roberts, the pastor, officiated and the interment was in the Block Island cemetery. The bearers were ex-Senator J. Eugene Littlefield, Dr. J. C. Champlin, ex-Representative Ray G. Lewis, David B. Rose, Representative Henry K. Littlefield and Giles Dunn. Steamer Block Island made a special trip to and fro to the island to carry the friends of the deceased in Providence and this city who attended the funeral.

TWO EDUCATORS TO DECIDE.

Controversy Over Change of Name of North Hartland Unsettled.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt., March 18.—The controversy over the proposal to change the name of the village of North Hartland, Vt., to Evarts has assumed such proportions that the chief magistrate of the United States has been drawn into the matter. North Hartland is a part of the town of Hartland situated on the Connecticut river, a few miles below White River Junction. For several years there has been a persistent attempt to change its name to Evarts, in honor of Maxwell Evarts, son of the late William M. Evarts of New York, who maintained a lareg estate at Windsor, a few miles below North Hartland. Maxwell Evarts spends much of his time in the vicinity of North Hartland and has done much to promote various industrial and agricultural projects in that neighborhood.

The majority of voters of the town having declared against a change of name, the contest invaded the Post-office Department. Inspectors were sent to the village, and after a while the name Evarts appeared in the postal guide in place of North Hartland. The opposition to the change of name increased, an organization of North Hartland citizens was formed and counsel was employed. President Taft was appealed to and the President nominated two arbitrators, President Ernest Fox Nichols and Professor Worthen of Dartmouth College. Upon the decision of these educators will depend whether the postoffice shall be known as North Hartland or Evarts.

The Most Efficient Crop Producers
are those fertilizers which supply plant food in an available form when needed. Swift's Animal Fertilizers are made from animal products—Bone, Meat and Blood—combined with High Grade Potash. They do more than supply fertility—they build up soils for future years.

Biggest Crop He Ever Raised.
I planted five acres of corn this season, having bought your fertilizers through your agent from town. I used 450 lbs. of Swift's Special Fertilizer to the acre, and notwithstanding the season was very dry, I harvested the biggest crop I ever raised. It was immensely thick and well eared, giving me 600 bushels of ears.
H. H. BROOKS, Ashby, Mass.

The Grange Prefers Swift's.
At the Grange Meeting last Saturday evening the subject of fertilizers was discussed, what was used, the results, etc. Everything went to show that Swift's goods had the lead. All preferred the kinds that Mr. Blake sold to any and all others that the farmers had used, and Swift's Fertilizers will take the lead here in the future if the standard of the goods is kept as good as now.

SATURDAY'S BASKET BALL.

Algonkin Intermediates and Galahad Second Beat Outside Teams.

Former Wins from the Winthrops of Fall River and Latter Iroquois of New Bedford.

By a score of 39 to 14 the Algonkin Intermediates defeated the Winthrops of Fall River at basket ball Saturday evening. The play, although one-sided, was fast and interesting. In the first half the Algonkins made five field and one foul goal while the Winthrops failed to score. In the second goals were more frequent, the Algonkins scoring 28 points and the Winthrops 14 points.

For the winners Moore and Kirwin played strong game in the forward positions and Armstrong and Koschny put up a good defense. Greene was the star for the Winthrops and was ably seconded by Whitehead and Kelley. The line-up was as follows:

Algonkins	Winthrops
Moore, r. f.	l. b., Whitehead
Hershman, l. f.	r. b., Greene
Armstrong, c.	c., Kelley
Koschny, Woods, r. b.	l. f., Pargen
Kirwin, l. b.	r. f., Gee Walmsley

Score—Algonkins 39; Winthrop, 14. Goals from floor—Moore 6, Hershman, Armstrong 4, Koschny, Woods, Kirwin 6; Whitehead 2, Greene, Kelley 3, Gee. Goal from foul—Hershman. Referee—Rawley. Scorer—Carr. Timer—Hale. Time—20-minute halves.

The Galahad second team won from the Iroquois of New Bedford at the Boys' Club in Fall River. The game was one-sided, the Galahads winning by a score of 37 to 17. In the first half they made 15 to their opponents' 6, and in the second the score was 22 to 11 in the Galahads' favor. The line-up:

Galahad Second	Iroquois
O. Clarke, r. f.	l. b., Dick
Lawrence, Reigle, l. f.	r. b., Wells
Jemail, c.	c., Davis
Reigle, Lawrence, r. b.	l. f., Goss
W. Clarke, l. b.	r. f., Brightman

Score—Galahads, 37; Iroquois, 17. Goals from floor—O. Clarke 2, Lawrence 3, Reigle 2, Jemail 7, W. Clarke 4. Goals from fouls—Reigle, Brightman. Referee—R. Good. Scorer and Timer—T. Clarke. Time—20-minute halves.

At St. George's School Saturday the St. George's Junior and Berkeley Juniors played a fast game of basket ball, the Berkeleys winning by a score of 34 to 26. The teams lined up as follows:

Berkeley Juniors	St. George Juniors
Taylor, r. f.	l. b., Cummings.
E. Peckham, l. f.	r. b., Leonard
Wilbur, c.	c., Patterson
L. Peckham, r. b.	l. f., Gates, Bowers

Score—Berkeley Juniors 34; St. George Juniors 26. Goals from floor—Taylor 3, E. Peckham 4, Wilbur 5; Cummings, Leonard 4, Gates and Bowers 4, Rathbun 4. Fouls—One on E. Peckham.

The series of games in Division B of the Grammar School Boys' League of the Young Men's Christian Association opened Saturday afternoon, with two close games in the gymnasium, the Hawks defeating the Pelicans 14 to 12 and the Eagles taking a game from the Vultures 10 to 9. The teams lined up in the following manner.

Hawks.	Pelicans.
Huntington, l. f.	r. b., Sanborn
Roe, r. f.	l. b., Hade
White, c.	c., Whitten
V. Woods, l. b.	r. f., Dennis
Chase, r. b.	l. f., Olivea

Score—Hawks 14, Pelicans 12. Goals from floor—White 5, Whitten 3, Dennis 2, V. Woods 2, Olivea. Referee—Mr. Sherman. Scorer—Mr. Geraghty.

Eagles.	Vultures.
Brown, l. f.,	r. b., Morrison
Nagle, r. f.,	l. b., Sheffield
Martin, c.,	c., Boghiot
Vaist, r. b.,	l. f., Coggeshall
Smith, l. b.,	r. f., Frazer

Score—Eagles 10, Vultures 9. Goals from floor—Nagle 3, Martin 2, Boghiot 2, Frazer 2. Goals from fouls—Boghiot.

Ring and West will be in the Tigers' line-up when that team meets St. Joseph's at the armory. It will be the first time in more than a month that both these men have been in the game. They have recovered from their illness and injuries, and together with Murphy, whose fingers have been blood-poisoned, but who is now in good condition, should give a good account of themselves. Since the second half of the schedule started the Tigers have been greatly handicapped, never having their complete team on the floor, and in this first game with all the men in the line-up they expect to atone for some of the defeats chalked up against them in this half.

Comparisons with recent games would be of little value, owing to the crippled condition of the Tigers, but when these teams met before at the armory early in the season, with exactly the same teams which will play the next game, the Tigers gave them one of the worst defeats this team has had this season. This game is all-important for St. Joseph's, for should they lose it might take away their last chance for winning the cup.

West and Williams, called by many the fastest forwards in the League, will both be in the game and West will try to overcome the lead Williams has on him as high basket shooter, while the latter will not only try to maintain the lead but also to increase it. Another interesting feature will be the Kirwin brothers, who are playing on opposing teams. Both these boys play left forward and only a few baskets separate them, and quite a friendly rivalry has sprung up between them.

THE PLANS FOR THE TEXAS.

Working Drawings of the Battleship Purchased by Admiral Chadwick in England.

It will undoubtedly be of interest to Newporters to learn that Rear Admiral French E. Chadwick was concerned in the beginnings of battleship Texas, now the San Marco, which is being used as a target for the battleship fleet in Chesapeake bay today. Admiral (then Commander) Chadwick was naval attache at London during the administration of William C. Whitney as Secretary of the Navy. Mr. Whitney directed him to purchase the working drawings for the Texas in England, and the vessel built from these plans was the steel battleship constructed in American shipyards. Charles Cramp, then head of the great American shipbuilding firm which constructed the Texas, once said that all the large shipbuilders went to school on the working drawings which Commander Chadwick had obtained. The Texas and the Maine, which were authorized by Congress in 1886, were the first steel battleships of the American navy.

PORTSMOUTH.

Sudden Death of Mrs. Norah Boyd, at the House of a Neighbor, on Her Way to Her Home.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

Norah, wife of William Boyd, who lived on the East Main road, almost opposite Child street, died Sunday evening at 9:30 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Tallman, on her way home from Mr. and Mrs. Peter D. Boyd's, where she had been spending the evening. Mrs. Tallman, who had also spent the evening with a neighbor, had just returned home, when the outer door was pushed open, a lantern thrown in, followed by Mrs. Boyd, who exclaimed: "O, Mrs. Tallman, I am dying." She was a large and heavy woman but Mrs. Tallman assisted her into a chair, called her physician by telephone and prepared some hot drink. She could not take it and spoke, but once again and gradually settled down in Mrs. Tallman's arms.

Upon his arrival the doctor pronounced her lifeless and later the body was removed to her own home, only a short distance. She leaves a husband, but no children. She was a hard-working woman and much liked by her employers.

Town Clerk George R. Hicks, on his way home from the Sunday morning service of the Baptist Church in Tiverton, met with a serious accident. He came down the hill from the Heights and when about opposite Whitredge hall his horse fell in such a way that he was well tangled up in the harness and vehicle. Mr. Hicks was thrown out, striking on his cheek bone, near the eye, cutting a gash to the bone and imbedding gravel in his face. It bled profusely and he was taken to a near-by doctor's and his wounds attended to, after which he was taken home. So complex was the mix-up of horse, harness and buggy that the harness needed to be cut in several places before the animal could be freed.

Mrs. Joseph C. Brazill; her daughter, Mrs. Charles E. Thomas, and son, Clifton Earle Thomas, have been guests of Mrs. John Marsland of Fall River.

Mr. and Mrs. Barton A. Ballou and Mr. Charles Rathbone Ballou have gone to New York, from which city the latter will sail for Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Ballou will go by boat to New Orleans and then up the Mississippi to St. Louis on their way to California.

The first of the third week in the series of union meetings was held at the Friends' Church Sunday evening. The north part of the house was filled, although the rain was falling in torrents before the meeting began. After the praise and prayer service Rev. John Wadsworth read the Scripture, Rev. James M. Estes offered prayer and Rev. David C. Loucks gave the sermon from John XIII:8: "Peter saith unto him, Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus answered him, If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with me."

The Young People's Auxiliary met with Mrs. Steele Saturday. The attendance was good and considerable work was accomplished.

Mr. Heath, at the Middletown line, is under the care of a physician.

Invitations have been issued for a reception to be given by Mrs. J. M. Eldredge of Bristol Ferry in honor of the eighty-second birthday of her mother, Mrs. William Burke, Saturday, March 25.

Mrs. Katharine Stevenson, Massachusetts state president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, will be guest of a Bristol Ferry resident this week and will give an address at the Social Studio concerning her two years' journey around the world, in the interests of temperance.

Mrs. Clara E. Dennis was guest Sunday of Mrs. Eliza McLeod.

Miss Clara Franklin, who has been guest for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Franklin, has returned to Providence.

About 25 were present at a meeting at Whitridge hall, Tiverton, to organize a new grange. Deputy Master Amos F. Maker of Bristol, Mrs. William Peckham, Mrs. Jason Gifford and Mrs. F. A. Wilcox spoke in regard to the work of the Grange.

A reception and dinner was given at Mr. Gadsby's to about 20 intimate friends in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Burnside, who were recently married in Washington. They are guests for a few days of the bride's sisters, Mrs. Lawrence L. Holden and Mrs. Charles H. Bryant, after which they will return to Washington, their future home.

Miss Mary E. Ward of Newport has been guest for a week of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Manchester at the Stanton farm.

The beautiful wreath given as a tribute to the memory of the late Thomas L. Sullivan was the gift of the employes running out of the Newport car barn, not of the Newport & Fall River employes.

Mrs. J. M. Eldredge, superintendent of schools, has been chosen one of the general organizing committee for the eighty-first annual meeting of the American Institute of Instruction, to be held in Providence June 29-July 1. Mrs. Eldredge attended a meeting of that committee held at the office of School Commissioner Ranger Saturday, to confer with Commissioner Payson Smith, the new president of the Institute.

STUDIES AVIATION IN DAYTON.

Lieutenant Rodgers Sets New Mark for Beginners Under Mr. Brookins's Instruction.

Lieutenant John Rodgers, who was recently assigned by the Navy Department to study aviation at Dayton, Ohio, under Walter Brookins, one of the Wright flyers, bids fair to establish a new record for beginners. He arrived at Dayton Saturday morning, and in the afternoon made 10 flights with Mr. Brookins of an average duration of 10 minutes, and in two of them he was in full control of the machine.

Lieutenant Rodgers became an aviation enthusiast while on board cruiser Pennsylvania during the flying meet held at San Francisco. He witnessed most of the flights there and was on board the cruiser when Eugene Ely made his famous flight from the shore to the cruiser. Man-carrying kites have also had considerable interest for the young lieutenant. While with the Pennsylvania he made one kite ascension to an altitude of 400 feet.

Mr. Brookins will devote 10 days to the instruction of Lieutenant Rodgers. He will then go to Salt Lake City to take part in the meet there, which opens the first week in April.

SALE OF TORPEDO BOAT STILETTO.

The wooden torpedo boat Stiletto was sold by the Navy Department Saturday to James F. Nolen of East Boston, the lowest bidder, for $377. The Stiletto was the oldest torpedo boat in the navy, having been purchased of the Herreshoffs in 1880 for $25,000. She has been attached to the Torpedo Station practically all her 30 or more years of existence, but in recent years has been but little used. There were seven other bidders for the craft, Mr. Nolen being the highest. The Stiletto will be taken to East Boston, to be broken up for the old iron in her.

[Arthur Chapman, in Denver Republican.]

We face the wind from the frozen north—
O'er the tattered tents it whines—
We wade the stream, when there's ice agleam
In the depths of the gloomy pines.
We set our traps on the wintry plain,
Where the wolf and his kindred prowl,
And are lulled at night, in the calm moonlight,
By the distant pack's long howl.
We starve on the heights, where the peaks stand clear
'Gainst a sky that's of burnished steel;
We pack and sledge through the oozy sedge,
Till as drunken men we reel.
We sell our wares for a miser's pinch—

Some Newport People Fail to Realize the Seriousness of a Bad Back.

The constant aching of a bad back,
The weariness, the tired feeling,
The pains and aches of kidney ills
Are serious—if neglected.

..Harry Vickers, 51 Second St., Newport, R. I., says: "My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills warrants me in vouching for their merit. Kidney trouble was brought on in my case, I believe, by the injurious effect on my kidneys of the paints and oils used in my work. The secretions from my kidneys contained considerable sediment, scalded when being voided and passed far too frequently. I was subject to dizzy spells, felt tired and languid and was devoid of energy. The good reports I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills led me to go to Wright & Hay's Drug Store and get the remedy. A great improvement was noticeable soon after I began its use and in a short time my whole system was toned up. I consider it no more than my duty to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

CLINGING TO THEIR EMIGRANTS.

It may be perfectly natural for European countries to deplore the emigration of their people, though Italy has become reconciled to their departure in some measure by the amount of money which they send back home, but we certainly have a right to expect the foreigners who come here to identify themselves with us and secure naturalization. Efforts of their former governments to keep hold of emigrants are not likely to meet with much success and can but excite suspicion and ill-feeling here.

Recently the Italian premier expressed to the Chamber of Deputies his regret that so many emigrants to the United States lose their nationality and become Americanized, and for this reason, he said, it would be necessary to increase the Italian schools abroad. Assuredly we have a right to object to that. We have a right to object to the maintenance by the Italian government of schools in this country designed to keep Italian children from learning English and acquiring the customs of Americans. If Argentina, whither a great many Italians go, is willing to allow that sort of thing, that is her affair; we do not believe the policy would promote amicable relations between this country and Italy.

On the same day that the Italian Premier expressed his ideas of schools in foreign countries to keep Italians from becoming foreigners, a Berlin despatch said the Reichstag would presently be asked to consider a bill changing the law by which a German automatically loses his citizenship after 10 years' absence. It is proposed that he shall retain his German nationality until he repudiates it in Germany; even naturalization would not deprive him of his German citizenship if he should go home. He cannot be naturalized here without swearing that he renounces his allegiance to the Kaiser, and we have a right to object to citizens who are also citizens of other countries. We cannot affect the action of the Reichstag, but if a naturalized German shall go back to his own country he cannot claim American protection unless he shall make it very clear that he is not resuming his German nationality.

THE DEFECTIVE BIENNIAL ELECTIONS MEASURE.

It seems strange sometimes that the members of the legislature are so slow in discovering that proposed measures are faulty in construction or are so worded as to fail to express the exact meaning intended. Many months ago a bill was introduced in the Assembly to provide for biennial elections of state officers. It was sent to the proper committee, some of the members of which are of the legal fraternity, carefully examined and changed in some minor points, and then reported back to the two branches of the legislature. There it was discussed in printed form, in order to be easily read and digested by the members, among whom are many lawyers, and finally it was passed by a concurrent vote of both branches. This was last year. At this session the measure came up for action a second time, as amendments to the state constitution must be passed by two successive Assemblies before they can go to the people to be adopted or rejected at the polls. Now at this late date it is discovered by a young lawyer who is a new member of the legislature that the measure is defective, because it does not amend also other clauses of the constitution, so that if this amendment were passed as now worded the constitution would be faulty in that it would provide in one place for biennial and in another for annual elections.

The discoverer of this fault in the proposed amendment is Representative West of Providence, who claims that because of the defect in the measure it will not be possible for the legislature to adopt and send it to the voters at the election next fall. This claim has rather disturbed some of the old-timers in the Assembly, who do not like to have it learned that they have been lax in the construction of legislation and have actually passed an important measure like this in such a form as to make it null and void, and especially do not relish having been found in fault in this respect by one of the younger members of the body, even though he is a member of the legal profession. There has been, however, no serious attempt to deny the truth of this claim, though there has been some talk of referring the matter to the attorney general or the supreme court for a decision before taking any new action.

There is of course no objection to this action on the part of the legislature, but it would be better to begin again at once and prepare a new amendment, to be adopted at this session and again at the next, so that it can be submitted to the people at the state election in November of 1912. This would of course mean a delay of a year in the adoption of the amendment by the people, but that seems inevitable under the existing conditions and further delay might postpone still further the date of the final passage of the measure.

It would be wise also for the legislature to make the new amendment include not only biennial elections but Assembly, since the latter are as Assembly, since the latter are as much to be desired as the former. The object of having elections biennial instead of annual is to give a respite from the turmoil of politics every other year and the same need exists in connection with sessions of the legislature. Indeed, in the minds of many that need is greater and the necessity for annual sessions of the Assembly is even less obvious than for annual elections of state officers.

It would not be a matter of much regret, therefore, that this amendment to the constitution providing for biennial elections must be postponed, if it could be certain that in the new one made necessary would be included a provision for biennial sessions of the legislature. It is extremely doubtful, however, if this General Assembly will permit the addition of such a provision, any more than last year's would sanction it, and for that reason it is to be regretted that this delay in the adoption of the biennial election amendment must be experienced. However, it will at least give another opportunity for those who favor biennial sessions of the legislature as well as biennial elections to try to secure both at the same time.

GERMANY AND GENERAL ARBITRATION.

What Sir Edward Grey said in the House of Commons regarding universal arbitration, or the arbitration of all matters, not excluding those affecting territory and "national honor," was said to the United States and not to Germany. It was a response to the remarks of President Taft, expressing his inability to see why any disputes should be excepted from a treaty of arbitration. However, it was coupled with remarks about naval expansion which were addressed specifically to Germany, and of course there is a pretty direct connection between the scope of arbitration and the size of a fleet. The more questions can be settled by arbitration, the fewer warships are needed, and as it was frankly stated that the British naval construction must keep ahead of the German, the suggestions for unrestricted arbitration had a reference to Germany as well as to this country.

To this suggestion for unlimited arbitration the German government has made a semi-official reply. Of course it is not specific, because England has not actually made an overture for unlimited arbitration, but considering the thoroughly military atmosphere which has always surrounded the German government the tone of the semi-official communication is at least encouraging. Sir Edward's speech is spoken of as an important political announcement and satisfaction at its utterance is expressed. Various difficulties in the way of universal arbitration are referred to, and it is said, well enough, that arbitration does not supply an infallible means of obviating international disagreements and may itself become the occasion of a quarrel. The pacific tone of Sir Edward's speech is noted with pleasure and the German disposition is said to be not less friendly.

There may be no immediate result, but the more arbitration is talked about, and the more conciliatory are the references to it, the more likely it is to be used, or attempted, before war is undertaken.

President Taft, it is said, will confine his message to the extra session of Congress to Canadian reciprocity and the establishment of a permanent tariff board. He is believed to be convinced that the country desires and ought to desire a further reduction of the schedules of the Payne-Aldrich tariff, but also thinks the country wishes that revisions of the future shall be made in the light of the scientific information which it is the duty of a tariff board to collect. If Mr. Taft's present wishes are met, the extra session will devote itself to reciprocity first, then to the permanent tariff board and then speedily adjourn and postpone the revision of the textile schedules until the tariff board completes its work.

The Democratic members of the House committee on ways and means, who are to be the leaders of the majority in the lower branch of the next Congress, are said to be unanimously in favor of the reciprocity agreement with Canada, and it is believed that a decision will be reached to keep the agreement separate from all other matters at the special session, taking up the schedules after the Canadian bill has been sent to the Senate.

The Utah legislature has adjourned, with a good record. Among the laws passed were those providing for a state capitol, giving cities, towns and countries local option; limiting woman's labor to nine hours a day, forbidding the sale of cigarettes, giving cities commission governments and making gambling a felony—a decided variety of legislation.

By pressing an electric button Saturday, ex-President Roosevelt set in motion the machinery opening the sluice gates of the Roosevelt dam in Arizona. This great engineering work in connection with the Salt river irrigation project has cost the government more than $8,000,000.

In many English pulpits Sunday the Taft-Grey proposals for an arbitration treaty which will secure unbroken peace between England and the United States were heartily commended, the strongest approval coming from the evangelical free churches.

The groundhog and the thunderstorm having failed to break the backbone of winter, perhaps Sunday night's wind and rain may be successful. It feels much like spring today.

OUR LOST OPPORTUNITY ON THE PACIFIC.

[Charles M. Harvey, in North American Review.]

One man in American grasped the possibilities of wealth and power which would be in the hands of a company that would form a line of fur-trading posts along the southern border of the Great Lakes to the Mississippi and thence onward by way of the Missouri and the Columbia and their principal tributaries to the Pacific with a base at some available point on that coast. At their own game the great British companies to the northward would be beaten. And at the same time, from the base on the great western ocean, the whole of the region on the sunset side of the Rocky mountains up to the arctic circle could be brought under tribute. England could be shut out of all the country west of that range, and the entire Pacific coast up to Russian America could eventually and peacefully be placed upon the Stars and Stripes.

Its author was born in the village of Waldorf, in Germany, in 1763, just as France, at the close of the Seven Years' war, was ceding Canada to England; he sailed to our side of the Atlantic in 1783, when George III, in the treaty of Paris, was acknowledging our independence and when the merchants of Montreal were establishing the Northwest Company. He became a fur-dealer, gradually gained control of the trade south of Lakes Huron and Superior, except that which was in the hands of the Mackinaw company, and won a reputation as a daring and resourceful operator which made his name known in Montreal, St. Louis, London and Canton. He had a dozen vessels afloat, representing a capital of $1,000,000, carrying furs to England and China in 1800; and at the time that the purchase of Louisiana in 1803 pushed our boundary to the Rocky mountains, he was the wealthiest and most successful merchant in the United States. His name was John Jacob Astor.

But the British fur trade was allowed to strike its roots deeply on the Pacific coast, and a vast region, containing millions of inhabitants today, was allowed to remain in dispute between England and the United States. Through private enterprise, chiefly through settlement in the valley of the Columbia, our title at last became so manifest that it was recognized in the Anglo-American treaty of 1846 by which we obtained undisputed possession of all the territory up to the forty-ninth parallel.

But this is only half the territory which we would have gained if the Astor project had been carried out. The present provinces of British, Columbia and Yukon, which were not valued highly by either the British government or the few hundred thousand people of Canada, nearly all of whom were thousands of miles to the eastward, would have passed into our possession by the peaceful process of occupation and expansion. And then, when California came into our hands in 1845 and when Russia handed Alaska over to us in 1867, we should have had an unbroken coast line from San Diego up to Point Barrow, far above the arctic circle.

TO INCORPORATE SARATOGA.

A bill providing for the incorporation of the city of Saratoga Springs under a commission form of government has been introduced in the New York legislature. The elective officers are to be five superintendents to form a council, four supervisors to be members of the board of supervisors of Saratoga County, twenty judges and nine school trustees. One of the superintendents is to be the mayor and the others the superintendents of public safety, of public works, of finance and of property assessments.

The new charter is to provide for a referendum on ordinances granting franchises or appropriating more than $25,000 for any one purpose other than current expenses or ordering a bond issue except bonds issued in lieu of unpaid taxes. It also provides for the recall of the mayor or any of the superintendents. The elective officers are to be designated by petition, and the two candidates for each office having the highest number of votes at the primaries are to have their names placed on the official ballot.

Central Federated Union Declines to Endorse Industrial Accidents Bill.

There will be no war between milk dealers and milk producers in the vicinity of Providence this summer over the price of the produce to the ultimate consumer. The Pawtucket and Providence branches of the Rhode Island Milk Dealers' Association have decided that the summer price will be eight cents per quart. This action comes as a result of the decision of the Rhode Island Milk Producers' Association a week ago to keep the winter price of 50 cents per 10-quart can through the summer. The dealers are in accord with this movement to the extent that they are willing to keep the winter retail price in effect during the summer, if they are to be obliged to pay the winter wholesale rates. It is stated by a representative of the dealers' association that he did not believe there would be an attempt next fall to raise the winter price. "The producers will be satisfied," he said, "if they can maintain the 50 cents per can rate throughout the year. Any attempt to raise the price further next fall will be opposed, I think, not only by the dealers, but also by the better class of producers."

The Providence Central Federated Union Sunday refused to endorse Senator Pierce's bill providing for a commission to deal with compensation for industrial accidents. The legislative committees of the organization and of the state branch of American Federation of Labor, were instructed to watch closely the progress of the measure through the house. The bill provides for the appointment of a commission of seven, one of whom shall be an attorney favorable to labor and another a representative of labor. The delegates raised the question what kind of "labor" was meant by the act, whether organized or unorganized? They also desired to know if the two commissioners were to represent the same kind of labor. It was feared by some of the delegates that the bill might be so amended that it would fail of passage. The position of Commissioner Webb of the Bureau of Industrial Statistics on the matter was questioned, especially with regard to his desire to serve as such a commissioner as the bill provides without compensation. Some of the delegates regarded this a move by him to control the commission if the bill was passed and he should be appointed as the representative of labor.

After operating for two months as a postal savings bank the postoffice at Bristol finds itself in eighteenth place in amount of business among the 48 offices designated by the Postmaster General January 3 for experiments. Since the service was first established at Bristol, which is the only Rhode Island office yet designated, it has gained 89 depositors, who have now savings amounting to approximately 2,000. The experimental postal savings banks have proved more popular in the Western mining districts where banking facilities are not available. Leadville, Col., occupies first place, having saving deposits of more than $20,000 and Anaconda, Mont., is second. The net deposits at all offices after two months' trial is more than $130,000.

The bill now pending before the legislative committee on agriculture and mechanic arts, which is intended to permit the trapping of foxes in Rhode Island during certain months of the year, is likely to meet a rather warm reception should it come up for a public hearing or be presented in the house. All the members of the bird commission, as well as the game warden of the state, are opposed to its passage and will fight it to the end, they say. They are supported in their opposition, it is said, by practically all the game hunters in the state. The act would permit the use of traps during the months of January and February, and it is not so much the idea of trapping which is opposed, as the methods used. The trappers, it is said, use heavy wire with which to make their nooses and these are hung from the boughs of trees in such a way that an animal in passing through them on the ground must of necessity be caught. When the animal enters the noose, the coil begins to tighten about it and soon its body and the animal may be cut in grasp, as the animal struggles to free itself the wire cuts still deeper into the body and teh animal may be cut in halves. In this manner, it is claimed, many of the finest hunting dogs in Rhode Island have been killed. The game warden has in his possession more than 20 of these traps which he has come across in various parts of the state. At the present time the law does not permit of the use of traps, but notwithstanding this fact many of them are used. It is said that, should the proposed act pass, allowing the use of traps during certain months, the woods of Rhode Island would be unsafe for any dog.

Ella Clara Bradley, principal of the Ring Street primary school, Providence, died Saturday at the Homeopathic Hospital, following a brief illness, from pneumonia. Miss Bradley had been suffering from a severe cold for several weeks, but had attended to her school duties up to Wednesday afternoon, when she was forced to call for a substitute. She was one of the veteran members of the teaching force of Providence, and during more than four decades was part of the evolution of the school system of that city. Her connections with the school life of Providence began in May, 1860, when she was appointed to the force at the Harris Avenue primary school. She served there continuously until December, 1875, when she was transferred to the Ring Street primary school. She became principal of this school in 1903 and had served continuously in that position up to the time of her death.

Francis Daley, a veteran of the Civil war, serving in the navy on the North Carolina, died recently in Providence from cerebral hemorrhage. He was born in Providence 71 years ago of Irish parentage, and made that city his home all his life. In 1862 he volunteered for duty in the Civil war, choosing the navy, and was assigned to the North Carolina, participating in a number of engagements and assisting in the capture of several blockade runners.

The six-day campaign of the members of the High Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Pawtucket, to clear off the debt of $4,600 on the parish was a greater success even than had been anticipated. The workers in the campaign reported Saturday evening that a total of $4,638 had been raised with good prospect of that amount being increased within the next few days.

THE WEATHER.

BOSTON, March 20.—Forecast for Boston and vicinity—Fair tonight and Tuesday; moderate to brisk westerly winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

During the past 12 to 24 hours rain has fallen in the Gulf states and along the Atlantic slope northward as far as New England, while snow has fallen in interior and northern New England and New York state, and is still falling in the province of Ontario and the St. Lawrence valley. The sky is generally clear and there has been no precipitation throughout the central and western portions of the country. The northern depression has moved eastward over Ontario and the lowest barometer reported is at Quebec. The secondary disturbance that was over Long Island sound last night has moved eastward to sea. The pressure is slightly above the normal in the lower Mississippi valley, and somewhat below in Arizona and in the British northwest. Mild weather prevails throughout the entire country and in northern districts the temperature is above the seasonal average. The lowest reported is 26 at Greenville, Maine. MR. CLEARY IN IRELAND.

Having a Good Time on American Money and Proud of the American Flag.

Many will be glad to hear from Mr. John J. Cleary, whose departure for his native land, for a vacation trip, after he was retired on a pension by the New England Navigation Company some months ago, was reported in The News. There was some question among his friends how he would get along with that American flag which he took with him. Apparently he is getting along all right, as the following letter, received by The News after St. Patrick's day, will show. The letter is characteristic of Mr. Cleary and is given as it was received:

Dan Drum, Co. Tipperary, Ireland, March 11, 1911.

To the Editor of the Daily News, Newport, R. I., United States of America.

Dear Sir: I, John J. Cleary, a citizen of the United States of America, now promenading in Ireland as a domineering bold American citizen, where I got my bread and butter for 41 years. I could not get that in Ireland; I was starved out, as millions of Irishmen were.

I brought the United States flag with me to Ireland, to protect me everywhere I go. Dear Editor, I have been challenged, but I told them this United States flag was the flag of freedom all over the world and that their flag was the flag of slavery.

I am the same John J. Cleary who worked for the New England Navigation Company, Newport, R. I., repair shop, in the blacksmith department.

Dear Editor: I am having a good time on American money the company sends me every month. God bless them, and bless ye all, over there!

John J. Cleary,
Dan Drum village,
Co. Tipperary, Ireland.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mrs. Joseph Stickney will sail for Europe Wednesday.

—Mr. George Fisher, who has been ill for a long time, is slightly better.

—The committee on playgrounds will meet this evening at the City Hall.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Coogan and Miss Coogan have returned to New York.

There was another sign of spring today—a carload of pea brush for market gardens.

—Landlord Parcell of the Perry House has returned from a short visit to Block Island.

—Mr. Frank B. Gilbert of New York will be the speaker at the dinner of the Channing Club this evening.

—Physical Director Slocum of the Young Men's Christian Association is visiting in New Bedford today.

—It did not take the wind long to dry up the streets and spread the dust, which was much in evidence this afternoon.

—Mr. John Martin of Franklin street was successfully operated upon for appendicitis at the Newport Hospital Sunday.

Colonel and Mrs. John C. Seabury are now on an automobile tour in Pennsylvania, having completed their trip to Bermuda.

—DeBlois & Eldridge have rented for Louis L. Lorillard his property at ... to Mrs. Henry Barton Jacobs for one year.

—Envoy Hill of the Salvation Army, who recently underwent an operation at the Newport Hospital, has made so good recovery that he was taken to his home Sunday.

—The billboards suffered from the rain and blow of Sunday night, and there was a scarcity of bills on many of the boards this morning and a surplus of washed off bills on the streets adjoining.

—Mrs. Herbert W. Smith sang soprano solos at the hospital Sunday afternoon, the Walter Lewrie Male Quartette also singing several selections. The quartet assisted at the service at the Asylum, also.

—James J. Cunningham of South Bethlehem, Pa., Ernest W. Beck and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lyons of New York, W. G. Smith, W. B. Turner and J. B. Watson of Boston, are registered at the Perry House.

Messrs. James J. Martin, Franklin C. Parsonage and Edward A. Martin represented St. Mary's Holy Name Society at the annual meeting of the Providence Diocesan Union of Holy Name Societies in Providence Sunday.

—Pilot Thomas McDonald today ... in a barkentine, laden with salt and bound for Providence, which anchored west of the Torpedo Station and gave her sails a drying out after proceeding. She was 20 days on her voyage from Turk's Island.

—Mr. John C. Massey has returned from a four weeks' vacation, following the closing of Mr. Curley's drug store. He spent the time in various places to the north, including visits to Maine and Canada, and collected some handsome winter photograps during his trip.

—George Gordon King has sold to ... E. Levy lots 70 and 71 of block ... the Wilbar Farm tract, bounded north 100 feet, on Eastnor road; west, ... feet, on land of the grantor; south, ... feet, on land of George H. Martin, and east, 100 feet, on Marchant street.

A draft of 97 apprentice seamen is to leave tonight by boat for New York, and another draft of 75 left this afternoon by train for Boston and Portsmouth. These are the first sent from here since the week before last. It is planned to send at least one draft every week.

—The condition of Dr. C. A. Brackett has shown satisfactory improvement in the past few days. He is still ill, however, to consider the plans of several dental societies of Boston which are making to give him a complimentary dinner, and that function has been postponed until next winter.

—The highway department is engaged in putting a sewer in County street, one of the new roads opened in the Stanton plat in the outer Broadway district, and the sewer already has two houses to serve. It of course connects with the Broadway sewer, which is over-crowded already because of the growth of the district.

—The wind blew so hard Sunday night when steamer Providence arrived from Fall River that she was unable at the first try to land at Long Wharf and put around the island for a second attempt, which was more successful. She remained at the dock some time after the usual hour for departure, waiting for the wind to calm.

—The pleasant weather has made some think of making boats ready and along the harbor front there are signs of activity. At the New York Yacht Club wharf Lynch Bros. are at work on the engine of Mr. Norman's launch and at Bowen at the shipyard Captain ... was seen scraping the gaff of his catboat, the first scraping of spars noticed. It shows that the season is here if it will only stay on.

—The police had another clean slate Sunday morning, the third consecutive day with no reports of arrests. The ... was broken this morning, when a drunk pleaded guilty and was fined $... and costs, which amount, aggregating $4.60, he had not found up to the last reports. An insane person was before the court and, on certificate of the examining physicians, was committed to the state asylum.

BULK TO HER SON JAMES.

Mr. Blaine Made Residuary Legatee and Other Executors Decline.

Bequests to Her Son William and Her Mother and Sister in Mrs. Bull's Will.

The will of Mary Nevins Bull, widow of Dr. William T. Bull, was filed for probate in Middletown today. It bequeathes to her son, William, two Hitchcock marine paintings and such special mementoes as he may desire; also, all her right, title and interest in the instruments, medical and surgical library and jewelry which belonged to his father, except the large pearl pin, which is to be given to her son, James. All the rest of the household furniture, horses, carriages and jewelry is given to the two sons, share and share alike.

The remainder of her property, both real and personal, is to be converted into cash, the proceeds to be invested in securities, and the interest and income thereof to be paid to her son, James, until the whole of the principal sum shall be paid to him, one half on his reaching his twenty-fifth year and the other half when he shall arrive at the age of 30.

She appoints her son, James; Edward Lauterbach and Edward L. Partridge executors of the will and her son, James, as guardian of the person of her son, William, "desiring him, however, to act under the advice of my executors, except that in regard to the education and the spiritual and religious welfare of my son, William, I desire my son, James, to be guided and advised by my friend, Rev. John B. Diman of Newport, R. I."

The will was signed May 25, 1910.

In a codicil made September 29 last she makes some personal bequests to her sister and mother, leaving the former her turquoise necklace, her mother her round emerald ring surrounded by diamonds, and to the two the use of her wardrobe during the life of her mother.

She requests her son, William, to continue the income paid her mother and to pay James Bloomfield and Sarah Hughes, faithful servants, $1,000 each, and keep them in his employ until he is 31.

She gives her son, William, her diamond engagement ring, with the understanding that he is always to retain it, in memory of her.

She requests her sons to pay $20 a month during her life to Catherine Massey Dillon, a former faithful maid; Also, that they erect over the grave of Dr. William Tillinghast Bull a monument from the design she selected.

The ninth clause is as follows: "It is my earnest wish that the prosecuting attorney of the county of New York will carry on the criminal prosecution of John A. Qualey, instituted on account of his defrauding me of the sacred bequest bestowed upon me by my beloved husband, and that my attorney will continue the civil litigation against John A. Qualey and Ellen Dunlop Hopkins on account of their conspiring to defraud me."

She appointed John C. Burke to take charge of her estate, acting with her sister, on her death, and to have charge of the management of her estate in Newport and that of her husband, Dr. William Tillinghast Bull.

Accompanying the will and codicil are declarations by Edward Lauterback and Edward L. Partridge, declining to act as executors and requesting that letters testamentary be granted to James G. Blaine, 3d. Each declares that "I am moved to decline to act for the sole reason that I believe that her son, James G. Blaine, 3d, is fully competent to perform the duties of executor, and since the estate consists largely of real estate in Newport, and as he is the residuary legatee under the will, that all interests will be best subserved if the sole management of the estate shall be left to him." These declarations are dated respectively February 10 and February 11, 1911.

Judge John C. Burke of this city appeared for the will, upon its presentation to the probate court of Middletown this afternoon.

JAMESTOWN.

Many Attend Funeral of Captain Benjamin Gardner at Central Baptist Church.

[Regular correspondence of the News]

The funeral of Captain Benjamin F. Gardner was held from the Central Baptist Church Sunday afternoon, Rev. Dr. Quick of Newport officiating, assisted by the pastor, Rev. G. H. Holt. The church and Sunday School room were taxed to their capacity, many coming from Newport, Providence and Block Island to attend. The floral tributes were beautiful, including a shield of everlastings of the colors of the Knights of Pythias, of which the deceased was a member, and two anchors of pinks, roses and calla lilies, one from the employes of the Narragansett Transportation Company and the other from the crew of steamer Beaver Tail. The service at the grave was conducted by members of Redwood Lodge of Newport, six members acting as bearers. The burial was in the family plot in Cedar cemetery.

Sunday evening between 50 and 60 assembled at St. Mark's to form a Holy Name Society. The meeting was enthusiastic and the following were elected: President, Samuel Smith, Jr.; vice president, John Marshall; secretary, Roland Silvia; treasurer, John Golat; spiritual adviser, Father Sullivan.

Miss A. A. Fuller, who has been guest of Mrs. Abbott Chandler, has returned to her home in Kingston, Mass.

Mr. T. A. H. Tefft of Shawmut, Mass., is guest of his father, Mr. E. N. Tefft, on Cole street.

Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Anthony, who have been visiting relatives in Providence, have returned to their home on Greene lane.

An addition to the Sever cottage, recently purchased by Mr. J. B. Knight of Providence, has been started.

More iron and cement for the Fort Greble work has arrived in Newport and is being carted across the ferries.

A. O'D. Taylor has rented for John D. Davis his furnished cottage on Shoreby Hill to Grant Walker of Boston for the summer season.

CHANGES AT THE T. SUFFERN TAILER COTTAGE.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer are expected here from New York this week to inspect the improvements at their new cottage on Ruggles avenue. The house is finished and practically ready for occupancy, but the stable is still in the process of re-modelling. The alterations in the latter, which is to be changed into a garage, include a bowling alley, shooting gallery and poolroom, the latter being equipped with a wide open fireplace and forming altogether perhaps the most up-to-date and comfortable recreation quarters to be found in any private residence.

SEEMS LIKE SPRING.

March Day, Ending in Rain, Followed by Warmer Weather—The Ponds Filling Up.

Spring is due officially at 12:54 Tuesday afternoon. It looked this morning as though the weather had anticipated the day and hour and that spring was already here. Such was the appearance of things, at any rate. It looked pretty well, and it felt pretty well. The rainstorm had arrived and passed along, and the earth seemed to be refreshed, nd the atmosphere a trifle warmer.

Sunday was a real March day. The wind in the morning was northeast, with bright sun and a temperature of 31 at 8 a. m. By noon the wind had swung to the southeast, it was still pleasant and the temperature was at 42. Then came a change. The sky became overcast and the temperature dropped to 41 at 2 o'clock. The southeast wind felt far from pleasant, agreeable or warm, especially warm. About 4:30 it began to rain, lightly at first, giving the many who were out for strolls time to reach home. Then it really did rain some, and it blew hard from the southeast.

The rain continued from 4:30 to midnight and at times it came down pretty fast, but half an inch is all that was reported at the Water Works pumping station at the morning observation. It must have been a dry spot at the pumping station, for many other places had more than half an inch of rain.

However, it is not so much the rain as the water in the ponds in which people are interested, and the water in the ponds is coming up. The north or Green End pond is this morning only about two feet below the high-water mark and is gaining. The south pond is still down about seven feet, but at the rate water is coming in at Green End the south pond can soon be spared some. It is likely that the Gardner pond at Paradise is filled by this time. If this is so Nelson or Paradise pond will quickly fill and then the surplus water can be pumped to the south pond. With both the Paradise and Green End ponds filled it would not require much rain to fill the south pond, for then everything would go into that receptacle—that is, what it is, a receptacle and not a pond. It has no water, but only storage space.

This afternoon again it blew hard, and though the mercury boomed up to 50 it felt like about 30, or even less, for the southwester had a Marchy feeling and it blew hard. That did not affect the baby carriage brigade, which was out in goodly numbers this afternoon and apparently made no kick over the weather so long as it did not rain.

THE NICOL-PAUL CASE.

Plaintiff Occupies the Morning With His Evidence and Does Not Quite Finish.

Judge Baker presided in the superior court this morning, and the Nicol-Paul case occupied all the session, and bids fair to take considerable more time by the way it was dragging along. Mr. Nicol had not quite finished his evidence when the recess from 12:52 to 2 P. M. was ordered. The claim is for $725.49.

Mr. Nicol produced bills for stock, from J. D. Johnston; for tin work, by J. J. Shepley, for $124; another bill for hard pine, $18; letters, his daily record, showing the time of the men on the job, etc. He was there and kept careful watch to see that everything was done right. Mr. Derby was wrathful over the bill. He said, "You mean to tell me that cost that?" and refused to approve the bill—he wouldn't think of it. "You think I'm a fool?" he said to witness, and returned the bill to witness by mail. He demanded an itemized acount, which witness characterized as one which would give the time each man took to cut off a board.

The action is a new one, brought last January. Mr. Derby was very particular about the tin. He very abruptly refused to employ some tinmen whom Mr. Nicol was able to recommend, and decided to accept another whom Mr. Nicol endorsed—Mr. J. J. Shepley. He wanted "M. F." tin, and had it painted on both sides.

THE PAINTERS' DEMANDS.

Supposed to Go Into Effect Today, But Most of the Men Receiving the Pay Designated.

This is the day the painters took as the turning point in matters of money, hours and pay. They issued a notice to the boss painters that on and after this date they would demand 41 cents an hour for an eight-hour day, with Saturday half-holiday off, at their (the painters') expense, the pay being by the hour; overtime to be one half extra or double time. There did not seem to be any particular stir as a result, but this was because generally the painters are already receiving 41 cents an hour. A few shops may be paying a few cents less per day; one was paying one cent less per hour, or eight cents less per day. It is not known whether or not the men will go out at those shops or the pay will be raised. The painters generally seem to be pretty well satisfied and are receiving good pay.

THE MACDOWELL CLUB'S STUDY HOUR.

The meeting of the MacDowell Club at Mrs. T. W. Freeborne's Saturday afternoon was devoted to the study of Beethoven. Miss Gwendolyn Cooper led the class in an interesting manner, Mrs. Freeborne played for them the first movement of the Sonate Pathetique. Children playing were Freddie Medlock and Frank Bozyan (a four-hand number), Dorothy Gladding and Hattie Fisher. Dorothy Gladding showed proficiency in rapid minor arpeggios and shading, and Hattie Fisher in syncopation and legato shading. A scale contest in the first set of majors was the feature of the hour, Hattie Fisher winning the prize, (a small picture of Handel) at 176 M. M. Dorothy Gladding was second, with an even pearly legato at 152. A musical game and the singing of "America" by the class, Mrs. Freeborne and Frank Bozyan playing, ended the study hour.

TAFT BACK IN WASHINGTON.

The President to Begin Work on His Message to Congress.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Greatly refreshed and prepared for strenuous executive activity before Congress convenes in extra session April 4, President Taft returned today from his ten day vacation at Augusta, Ga. The President will take up at once the preparation of his message to Congress, re-submitting the Canadian reciprocity agreement. He expects to confer immediately with leaders of both parties regarding the work of the special session, it being his desire that the Canadian agreement be ratified and the tariff board bill be passed. That, it is declared, is all the President wants done at the special session.

The Mexican situation was the first subject of importance to engage the President's attention on his arrival there, having accumulated considerable correspondence in the matter since his departure. Conferences with Senor De La Barra, Mexican ambassador, and General Wood, were expected to be held during the day.

TALENT AMONG NEW-COMERS.

Many Furnish Songs at the Army and Navy Association's Peanut Social.

With one or two exceptions, the talent at the peanut social Saturday evening consisted of new-comers. A good roomful of men appreciated the contributions of each as he did his part. A number of familiar songs were sung by all hands, to set things in motion; then L. W. Carr recited a few verses descriptive of "Willie's Monkey." J. C. Miller gave a lively step dance, E. P. Budd, an old acquaintance, played his own accompaniment as he sang "When Budd was quite young he sang a song of sixpence, but now, older and with higher financial standards, he sings of fifty cents." Jack Shassian entertained with a parody on "School Days." This brought J. C. Miller to his feet again with another verse of the same song. Shassian came back with a song about "Dr. Cook and the Eskimos." Jack Brennan's medley brought in a clever little plot and the titles of about 20 songs, but Jack's voice was unequal to the test of carrying the entire piece. C. J. Dolle sang "Under the Yum-Yum Tree" and "Dreamland." After all had exercised their wits on conundrums peanuts were distributed.

The interest taken in the study of the topic at the Home Hour Bible Club meeting Sunday was noticeable. "How May I Keep Saved? was the question which held the attention of the men in four classes and the importance of which seemed to be generally realized. During the song service Ralph Brooks played, J. W. Lawrence led the chorus singing, and Brooks and C. W. Clark, hospital apprentice, sang a duet, "Nearer Home." The Bible class luncheon was supplied by the enlisted men's fund.

Despite the rain a large party of men went to the evening church serevice.

Next Sunday's classes will meet with many familiar faces missing, owing to the large draft of men leaving today. The Bible class luncheon will be supplied again from the enlisted men's fund.

FALL RIVER BOYS COMING.

Grammar School Y. M. C. A. Class to Visit Newport and Compete in Athletic Sports.

Physical Director Slocum of the Young Men's Christian Association was in Fall River Saturday, where he completed arrangements for the visit to Newport next Saturday of the grammar school boys' class of the Fall River Association. It promises to be a regular field day, for a large party of the youngsters are coming and have engaged a special car. They will be accompanied by General Secretary Dodge, Physical Director Hinman... back and Boys' Work Director Lovell.

Following is the list of athletic events in which the Spindle City boys will compete with the Newport lads: Setting-up drill, 15-yard dash, subway race, 40-yard swimming race.

The visitors will be entertained at luncheon and during the afternoon will be taken sight-seeing about the city, leaving for home at 5 o'clock. During the luncheon the boys' orchestra will play.

FALLING OFF IN FREIGHTS.

Curtailment of Products by New England Mills Affects the New Haven Railroad.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford is showing a decided falling off in its freight tonnage as compared with a like period one year ago. The decrease is in both east-bound and west-bound business. This would indicate that both these sections are affected alike. The fact that there has been a decided falling off in the volume of raw material handled may be taken as meaning that the mills of New England are curtailing the amount of their product. This, of course, results in lighter shipments to the Western markets.

Efforts are being made by the road to reduce its freight train mileage, and this is about the only plan of relief that remains in the way of further operating economy. Special freights, where tonnage has been greatly reduced, are to be doubled up, thereby imposing upon the locomotives the maximum of their efficiency. The passenger business is holding up well, but it is not greatly ahead of that of a corresponding time last year. There is no intention at present to reduce the mileage of the passenger trains.

On the Boston & Maine conditions parallel those to be found on the New Haven system. The management is casting about in the hope that it may find some way to reduce the present cost of operation, but the outlook is not promising. While the road's freight business is discouraging, the passenger traffic remains normal.

PROBATE COURT.

In the probate court this morning letters of administration on the estate of Mary S. Hammond were granted to Clarence C. Thurston, on the estate in Rhode Island of James R. Page to ... Page of Boston, with Francis B. Kenney of Providence as agent in Rhode Island; and on the estate of John J. Harrington to Margaret F. Harrington, notice being waived.

The petition for probate of the will of Mary Elizabeth Barlow was continued to April 10.

LIFE SAVERS' MEDAL FOR EUGENE HIGGINS.

The French government has awarded a life savers' gold medal of the second class to Eugene Higgins for gallantry in saving two Frenchmen at the time of the wreck of his yacht Varuna, which went ashore on the coast of Madeira Island November 16, 1909. Mr. Higgins is a brother of Mrs. H. Mortimer Brooks and was returning to Europe after a visit to Newport and other American cities, when his yacht was wrecked.

ARMY PROBLEMS.

Question of Equipment to be Settled as Result of the Manoeuvres in Texas.

One of the principal questions which the War Department hopes to settle as a result of the manoeuvres in Texas and California is as to whether the army as now organized is provided with an over-stock or with an insufficient equipment of wagons, tents and supplies of all sorts. This is a question over which there has been a division of opinion among army officers. Some hold that the army would be hindered on a march by the large amount of impediments it carries, while others think it should be even more heavily equipped than at present.

Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army, in talking of the manoeuvres, said another question which it was expected to decide was whether there should be a re-organization of the cavalry on another basis. It is contended that this branch of the system should be more in accord with the system in use in several European countries, where the size of the cavalry with each division of the army is much smaller than in this country. He explained that on the present army basis a division of troops when on complete army footing would spread over 11 or 12 miles while marching. For the purpose of determining whether this was too unwieldy a body and whether it could be reduced in certain respects, the troops would be formed into complete divisions.

Some of the objects expected to be attained by the mobilization of the large force of troops in Texas are pointed out by General Wood.

"It is the first opportunity for most of the general officers of the army to command a brigade or division of regular troops," said he, "and it is proposed to give practically all our general officers an opportunity to command the troops assembled at San Antonio. The major generals will be assigned to command the manoeuvre division and the brigadier generals the various brigades. As instruction it will be the most valuable affair of the kind we have ever had.

"The militia officers have been invited to come to the camp in details of 200, bringing their field equipment and mess outfits. They are to remain for two weeks, and then to be relieved by another group of 200. The purpose is to attach each militia officer to a regular officer of a corresponding grade and have him accompany the regular officer in his daily round of duty, to obtain thorough instruction in caring for troops in camp as well as to familiarize himself with the methods of instruction, drill, etc. Medical officers are being included to study camp sanitation. All troops have been inoculated against typhoid fever.

"The mobilization so far as the army is concerned, has shown that the troops are prepared to move quickly. Such delays as have occurred have been incidents to railway transportation at this season of the year, washouts, etc."

SESSION MAY BE PROLONGED.

General Impression is That Three Months Will See the End.

Debate on Canadian Agreement in the Senate May Drag Out Into a Filibuster.

[Washington Correspondence of The News.]

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Persons of a speculative turn of mind are trying to guess how long the special session of Congress will last. President Taft sees no difficulty in passing the Canadian agreement and adjourning early. Champ Clark thinks the Democrats will stay and present a scheme of tariff revision. Certain Senators opposed to the reciprocity agreement think that several months' discussion should be given to such an important innovation in our tariff legislation.

So there is any amount of latitude for guessing on the date of adjournment. The general impression seems to be that Congress will not want to remain here very long after the hot weather begins, and three months is given as the limit of the session.

In case the debate in the Senate begins to drag out into a filibuster there will be an opportunity to test a form of cloture which has grown up in the Senate. There can be one continuous legislative day. No Senator can speak more than twice on the same subject on the same legislative day.

If the Vice President should construe a subject to mean the entire bill rather than amendments to it a filibuster could be brought to an end. But if any amendment offered should be a new subject then the filibuster could continue as long as men wanted to offer amendments and talk about them. By such means a well organized filibuster would last for months.

The country will not endorse an out and out filibuster. That was shown back in 1893 when the silver bill was under consideration. The silver Republicans and the Democrats had what seemed to be a firm alliance not to allow the repeal bill to ever come to a vote. They talked for three months; then the Democrats wavered and gave up. The silver men were willing to continue the fight, but they were not strong enough to continue it alone. And that is what will happen in case of a filibuster against the Canadian agreement. It will cause so much criticism that the filibusters will give in.

But a different proposition is presented if the Democrats of the House set about revising the tariff and insist that they must put through a tariff bill because they have been commanded to do so by the voters at the last election. If they go ahead in good faith and endeavor to enact a new tariff law they can stand the criticisms, for they can claim to be obeying the will of the people. It is this possibility of general tariff revision by the House that may prolong the session.

There is a strong desire on the part of many Senators not to re-organize the committees at the coming session of Congress. That is because it will throw out of employment many of the employes who would hold on and draw salaries until next December. Ex-Senators whose employes would lose their places are trying to induce Senators who do not use the prefix "ex" to simply fill vacancies on the finance committee while it will handle the reciprocity bill and do nothing more.

It is to be hoped that all those soldiers down in Texas and the young officers and the militia who are to witness the "war game" will be careful when they are near the Mexican border. A little carelessness may cause a lot of trouble.

It may not be remembered that a careless shot from a Nebraska regiment in the Philippines precipitated the hostilities with the Filipinos which caused an expensive insurrection. There was an impression that the shot was fired by a young man who had not seen any fighting and was afraid he would go back home without having any real war. And such would have been the case had it not been for the insurrection.

Having that in mind, it should be the aim of General Carter and all his officers to try to restrain the soldiers of their command from anything like careless handling of their firearms. It does not take much to kindle a war flame when everything is ready, as it was in the Philippines and as it will be on the Rio Grande.

The war in Mexico will last as long as the Spanish war against the insurrection in Cuba, in the opinion of well informed army officers. The bands of insurrectionists will keep up an incessant guerilla warfare in the mountains and in the inaccessible places in Mexico. When our troops went down into Mexico after Geronimo it took them nearly two years to get him, and then only after making terms with him as to what should be done with him and his followers.

PRICES OF COAL LANDS.

Government Will Gain Big Sum by New Method of Selling.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Hundreds of billions tons of coal, contained in the vast area of coal lands in the West, consisting of more than 70,000,000 acres are owned by the United States government, according to an announcement of the United States Geological survey. Some tracts are of immense value, containing beds of the highest grade of coal in veins from 30 to 80 feet in thickness. By a new method of selling this coal land, the government will gain an enormous amount of money. The old way was to sell the coal lands regardless of value, at $10 an acre if more than 15 miles from a railroad, or at $20 if within that limit. Now the geological survey measures the coal in an acre and the land is sold on a coal tonnage basis. As a result coal lands have been priced as high as $100 an acre, and in one tract at even $600.

BIG INCREASE IN EXPORTS.

American Commerce During February Showed Extensive Growth.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—A $51,500,000 increase in exports was the showing made by American commerce during February, as compared with that month a year ago. This increase extended over the entire list of exports, but was especially marked in manufactured cotton, corn and leaf tobacco. For the eight months ending with February, the increase of exports over the corresponding period of last year was $222,100,000. Unmanufactured cotton exported during February amounted to $55,100,000, an increase of 101 per cent; corn $5,300,000, an increase of 55.1 per cent, and leaf tobacco $2,700,000, an increase of 58 per cent.

ANTHROPOLOGICAL EXPEDITION.

Expedition from University of California Discovers Indians.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20.—An anthropological expedition from the University of California under Professor Kroeber has reported the discovery of remnants of a supposedly extinct tribe of California Indians, near the head waters of the Sacramento river. The main body of the tribe, the Kumbos, were exterminated in a raid in 1870 by settlers. According to the members of the expedition, which returned from the north yesterday, there are about 20 in the tribe at present. They were identified by arrowheads and several other implements found in their camps, although the aborigines themselves were too wild to be approached. The university will try to have them rounded up by a troop of United States cavalry in order that their language and ancient customs may be studied in the interest of ethnology. Numerous reports from sheep men in Tehama county that sheep had been killed by arrows led to the search for the Indians.

NOT A REFORM SCHOOL.

Chicago Naval Recruiting Officer Condemns That View in Report to Secretary Meyer.

Captain J. H. Comfort, head of the Chicago naval recruiting station, who investigated a report that Judge Pinckney of the juvenile court has sentenced an incorrigible boy to the navy, has made public his report to the Secretary of the Navy.

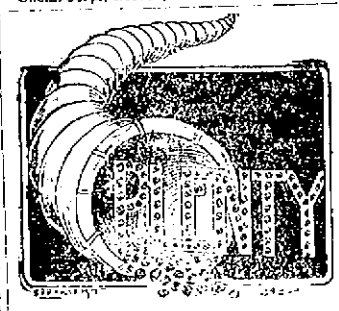

In a letter to Judge Pinckney, Captain Comfort outlined the efforts taken to investigate the character and record of all applicants, adding: "The navy is not a reform school in any sense and there is no place in it for incorrigibles. I trust in the future no boys who come under the notice of the juvenile court will be sent to this office."

In reply Judge Pinckney said: "Of course I could not sentence the boy to the navy, but I told the boy's father that the navy is a good place for this kind of a boy, as it will make a good man of any incorrigible boy."

Completing his report, Captain Comfort says: "I had intended to write the Judge a very strong letter on this subject, but, in view of the department's telegram, I believe this will be done by the department."

CURED HER BABY OF ECZEMA

"I can't tell in words how happy the word 'Cuticura' sounds to me, for it cured my baby of itching, torturing eczema. It first came when she was between three and four weeks old, appearing on her head. I used everything imaginable and had one doctor's bill after another but nothing cured it. Then the eczema broke out so badly behind her ear that I really thought her ear would come off. For months I doctored it but to no avail. Then it began at her nose and her eyes were nothing but sores. I had to keep her in a dark room for two weeks. The doctor did no good, so I stopped him coming. For about two weeks I had used Cuticura Soap for her every day, then I got a box of Cuticura Ointment and began to use that. In a week there was a marked improvement. In all I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and my baby was cured of the sores. This was last November; now her hair is growing out nicely and she has not a scar on her. I can take my child anywhere and people are amazed to see her without a sore. From the time she was four weeks old until she was five years, she was never without the terrible, eruption, but now, thanks to Cuticura, I have a well child." (Signed) Mrs. H. E. Householder, 2091 Wilhelm St., Baltimore, Md., May 10, 1910. Sold everywhere. Send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Boston, for free book on the skin.

THE 1910 COTTON CROP.

An Increase Seen in the Production Over the Preceding Year.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The census bureau's reports show the cotton crop of 1910 to be 11,941,563 bales, counting round as half bales and including linters, compared with 10,386,209 for 1909. Linters 397,592 bales; Sea Island cotton 90,368 bales; round 112,887 bales; the average gross weight of the bales is 501.2 pounds for 1910, compared with 496.6 for 1909. Expressed in equivalent 500 pounds bales the 1910 crop is 11,969,757 compared with 10,315,382 for 1909. Cotton estimated by ginners and delinters as remaining to be ginned and included in the statistics for 1910 amounts to 70,169 bales. The 1910 crop by states is reported as follows:

State	Running Bales.	400 pound Bales.
Alabama	1,217,399	1,220,507
Arkansas	821,225	844,850

SUBWAY SYSTEM AT A HALT.

Unusual, Tribute Paid to Builder During His Funeral in New York.

NEW YORK, March 20.—For two minutes today everything was still throughout the entire subway system, and trains came to a dead halt wherever they happened to be. Such was the unusual tribute paid to John B. McDonald, builder of the subway, who died last week and whose funeral was at the moment being held in St. Patrick's Cathedral. Many men of mark in various walks of life attended the services.

THROWN OUT OF COURT.

Cox's Affidavit of Prejudice and Bias Against Judge Gorman.

CINCINNATI, March 20.—George B. Cox's affidavit of "prejudice and bias" against Judge Frank Gorman, by which the indicted political leader sought to bring his case before some other jurist of the court of common pleas, was thrown out of court by Presiding Judge Charles Hunt, in a decision handed down today.

Judge Hunt's decision was that the statute providing for the filing of prejudice affidavits to swear judges off the bench is so framed that it applies to other counties of Ohio, but not to Hamilton county. Judge Hunt refused to act on the Cox affidavit, and suggested that if there is any question whether he has the power to act on the affidavit, a mandamus proceeding be brought in an effect to have the upper courts determine whether the law does apply to Hamilton county. He found that "the affidavit is sufficient in law and in fact to give the supervising judge of the common pleas court jurisdiction to act, but in Hamilton county there is no supervising judge." The grand jury today began investigation of city contracts for brick paving, with several contractors and out of town business men connected with a brick manufacturing concern present as witnesses.

TO SPREAD DISSATISFACTION.

The Monarchists Distribute Money Lavishly Throughout Lisbon.

LISBON, March 20.—The monarchists, taking advantage of the divisions and antagonisms among the Republicans, are distributing money lavishly to spread dissatisfaction in the capital and throughout the provinces. The governments postponement of the elections for the fourth time, now until May 14, has made a disagreeable impression upon the public. The announced reason for this delay is that the clergy have undue anti-government influence in various northern districts and there is need of more time to further the Republican campaign.

The British foreign office has informed the Portuguese government that it will receive a representative of the republic quite unofficially, and will not recognize him in a diplomatic capacity. It is on these conditions that Teixeira Gomez, the new envoy, goes to London. It is understood that Washington will follow this course in the case of the Portuguese representative sent to the United States.

THREE MEN HURT.

Another Explosion of Ammonia Occurs in Burning Ruins in Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 20.—Another explosion of ammonia occurred today in the burning ruins of the Monarch Refrigerating Company building, where last night dozens of persons were made unconscious. By the latest accident three received hurts, but as in the case of previous victims, there were no fatalities. Estimates of $800,000 loss, chiefly on butter and poultry, are confirmed.

ROOSEVELT IN PHOENIX.

Colonel Trusts That Next Congress Will Admit Arizona as a State.

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 20.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt addressed one of the largest throngs ever assembled in the Southwest, on the plaza here today, his theme being American statehood. Colonel Roosevelt arrived from Mesa at noon, attended a luncheon given in his honor by members of his former Rough Rider regiment and then proceeded to the plaza. He said in part:

"I regret that Arizona was not admitted to statehood by the last Congress and I trust the next Congress will admit it. The objections to admitting it, I regard as without warrant of justice. Apparently these objections have been chiefly or entirely due to the fact that Arizona has adopted in its constitution the referendum, initiative and recall. "I do not agree with the form in which Arizona adopted the recall, especially as regards the judiciary, but while I regret that Arizona should have adopted the recall in this fashion, I not merely admit but insist that this is a matter purely for Arizona' sown decision, and that neither the opinion of myself nor any other outsider has the slightest bearing on Arizona's right to the privileges of statehood. What the views of New York and Texas upon the question may be has nothing whatever to do with Arizona's rights to its own views:

The principles of the initiative and referendum may or may not be adapted to the needs of a given state under given conditions. I believe they are useful in some communities, and not in others, but to deny a territory the right of statehood because it had adopted these principles is as wrong as to say that Vermont should not be a state because its governmental system is based upon the principle of the town meeting. If the constitution of the United States forbids the use of the referendum or initiative, then the constitution should be amended without delay.

"I am a strong nationalist, but I am no less a believer in the rights of the states wherever the rights of the states mean the rights of the people, and in this case the rights of the people include the right of the people of any state to decide upon any course of action it deems best in this matter. The United States government is in honor bound to admit Arizona under its present constitution. Now my friends, while in the fullest way I thus acknowledge your right to form the constitution that you have formed, and to be admitted thereunder to full membership in the federal union, I also wish it distinctly understood that while there are many provisions in your proposed constitution with which I most heartily agree, there are some with which I disagree and notably among these is the provision of the recall especially affecting the judiciary.

"I admit the melancholy fact that there are states where judges have so acted as to make it justifiable and necessary for the people to adopt measures for retiring all such judges from office. But speaking generally, and as regards most communities under normal conditions, I feel that it is to the interest of the decent citizens who want nothing but justice in its broadest and truest sense, not to adopt any measure which would make judges timid, which would make them fearful lest deciding rightly in some given case might arouse a storm of anger, temporary, but fatal.

"Some way should be provided by which, in extreme cases and after careful deliberation, it should be possible to remove a judge even though the circumstances would not justify his impeachment, but I think that some much wiser method than that you have devised in your constitution should be adopted. In any event, a measure fraught with such possibility of mischief as the recall of judges, as you have provided for, should not be adopted until by actual experiment you are driven to it as a necessary but regretable method of doing away with some even worse evil. The initiative, referendum and recall are not in themselves ends of value they are simply means for the achievement of an end."

MADEROS ENTER INTO NO DEAL.

Few Believe Limantour Will Succeed Diaz as Provisional Head.

NEW YORK, March 20.—Gustavo Madero's belief that Senor Limantour, Mexican minister of finance, will succeed Porfirio Diaz as "provisional president" until another election can be held was not accepted at its face value today by others who were in conference with Senor Limantour while he was in this city. The words of Limantour himself, spoken last night at San Luis Potosi, that he intends to "co-operate with General Diaz" are quoted against a change so radical. The understanding of Francisco Madero, Sr., is that although Senor Limantour is to be entrusted with the program of reform, he will work at Mexico City, as he did here by private suasion, rather than by direct command.

At the offices of the Inter-Continental Rubber Company here today it was denied that the company had entered into any deal for $29,000,000 with the Maderos to buy out their rubber plantations and factories in Mexico. "It is sufficient to say," ran the statement, "that the present status of the Madero in Mexico is too uncertain for us to treat with them."

BISHOP OF HAYTI DEAD.

James Holly, First Negro Consecrated by Protestant Episcopal Church.

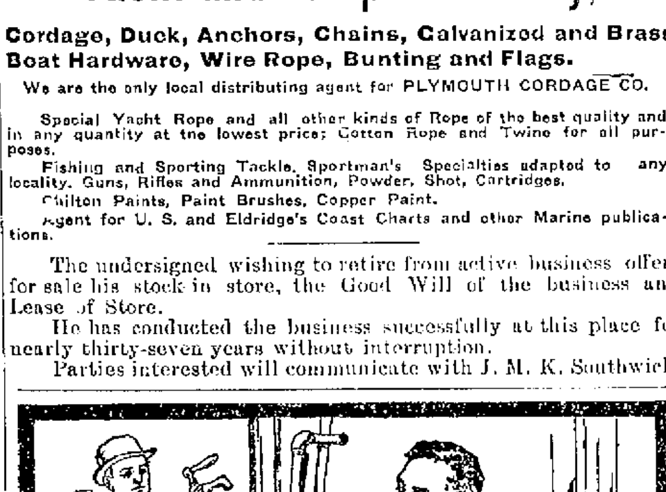

BOSTON, March 20.—The death of Rt. Rev. Dr. James Theodore Holly, Bishop of Hayti, and the first negro consecrated by the American Protestant Episcopal Church, is announced in a despatch to the church authorities. Bishop Holly was once stationed in New England and had preached in this city. He was born in Washington, D. C., in 1829 and was educated as a Roman Catholic. Becoming an Episcopalian, he was ordained priest of the Episcopal body in 1856, and became rector of St. Luke's Church, New Haven, Conn. In 1861 he took a colored colony to Hayti, where 43 died within six months, of whom five were members of his own family. He was consecrated bishop of Hayti in 1874. Before the consecration the work of the church in that country was supervised by a number of white bishops, one of whom, Rt. Rev. Dr. George Burgess, bishop of Maine, died at sea, while returning to this country.

Bishop Holy was a noticeable figure in the triennial general convention of the Episcopal Church, which was held in Boston in 1904. He was one of the two negro bishops allied with the denomination, the other being Bishop Ferguson of Liberia.

Canadian Pacific advanced 2½. Southern Railway preferred 1 point, Missouri Pacific & Northern Pacific ½ and Consolidated Gas and United States Steel preferred ⅝. The fertilizer shares were heavy, Virginia Carolina Chemical dropping 1 point and American Agricultural Chemical ½.

Noon.—Buying orders accumulated over Sunday, arising from the demonstration of strength Saturday, gave a firm tone at the opening. After these orders were executed prices receded to under Saturday's closing with some decided pressure against the Pacific group, Reading and United States Steel. The street was flooded with Washington despatches relative to the possible action of the supreme court in the anti-trust cases. As the time drew near for the court to convene trading almost ceased, with prices holding close to the low level. Bonds were steady. Money on call steady at 2½ per cent. Prime mercantile paper 4 to 4½ per cent. Exchanges $[illegible]; balances $[illegible].

Stores.

The steel re-inforcement for the running track of the gymnasium at the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association has arrived and is being put in place today. The running of the concrete will probably be begun Tuesday. The steel girders for the roof of this portion of the building have also arrived, but of course will not be required at once. The bricklayers are making good progress on the side walls, but are working to a disadvantage because of the non-arrival of the window frames. In the meantime the terra cotta front is rising so that it begins to make a showing over the arcade.

Along Thames street the store fronts are closing in well. Most of the places have received their glass, and at the Downing store the staging has been removed. Here there are distinctive marks of the big city, for in addition to the large show windows there is a space overhead filled with corrugated glass, for throwing light into the store, and in this is leaded matter which would otherwise go in a painted sign. Copper in place of wood is the outer face of all the construction.

The staging is about ready to be taken down at the Sherman job, the final exterior plastering being done today.

At the old Dryer building conditions are nearly ready for the removal of the barricade, as the windows have been framed for the glass. The cutting away on the side for the widening of the alley to the Colonial Theatre exit has yet to be done, though all the structural work to permit this has now been completed.

At Young's block the new store has been nearly roughed in and preparations are in progress for the glass. Here it will be noticed that for quite a distance down under the jet the front and side has been sheathed in, this finish instead of glass will permit the drug firm that display of advertising which is so conspicuous a feature of its business.

ANOTHER FIRST DIRECTORY.

It Contains Evidence That Mr. Henry W. Clarke Was a Teacher Here in 1856-7.

To the Editor of The Daily News:

In your issue of Saturday last there was under the head of locals a statement that Mr. Henry W. Clarke of this city was in possession of a City Directory of the years 1856 and 7, and that there are only three copies now known to be in existence. I wish to say that I have one of the same edition, and it contains much information of interest to Newporters. In addition to the historical discourse by Rev. John Callender on the civil and various affairs of the colony of Rhode Island from the first settlement in 1638 to the end of the first century in 1738, there is a history of all the meeting houses (now churches) from the first one built by Dr. John Clarke in 1641, situated at Green End, which was the first baptist church built in America, also a record of every church built in Newport from 1641 to 1856, a total of 21 in number. Also, a list of the presidents of the colony from the settlement of the island to June, 1662, when the charter granted by King Charles was adopted, and the names of all the governors of Rhode Island who served this state down to 1856.

Mr. Clarke says he was not here the year that the Directory was issued, but came here the year after. I think Mr. Clarke is mistaken in his statement, for I find in the directory of 1856-7 the name of Henry W. Clarke, 91 Spring street, teacher for boys, and Emily Newton, Elizabeth Mumford and Amelia Barker, assistant teachers for girls, all at the Farewell Street grammar school at that time. It is a well known fact that Mr. Clarke has served as teacher in the public schools continuously for a longer time than any other man in Rhode Island, which can be proved by the records. There are many business men in Newport today, who are on the shady side of 50 years with grey hair, who in their movements and appearance are not so active as Mr. Clarke. Many of these men attended Mr. Clarke's school in the early fifties.

THE BIJOU PICTURES.

At the Bijou Theatre the pictures include "Krimmel Water Falls in the Austrian Tyrol," a picture made in one of the beauty spots of Europe, the Austrian Tyrol, with picturesque mountain scenery, raging torrents, etc., and containing some night views; "Society and the Man," a story of city and society life; "For the love of an Enemy," telling of life during the days of the Civil war, with scenes laid in the South; "The Lily of the Tenements," one of the latest Biograph productions, and a comedy entitled "Jiggers Looks For a Job."

The dailiest pictures, which have proved a success, will be continued, one being shown at each performance with the other pictures run on the old machine, thus enabling people to see which they prefer.

There will also be solos, duets, trios and illustrated songs by the same trio as last week, with entire change of songs.

JEWISH SYNAGOGUE ELECTION.

President—Max Levy.
Vice President—Isaac Josephson.
Secretary—Nathan David.
Treasurer—Lazar Hertz.
First trustee—Daniel Rosen; second, D. Frank; third, Jacob Aronson.

Preceding the election reports covering the work of the past years were read, the financial and trustees' by Mr. David, and the Sunday school by Mr. Levy. The latter was especially interesting, showing increased efficiency and enthusiasm in this department. This has been evident since the school has been under the charge of Rev. B. A. Lichter and Rev. J. Black.

At the Synagogue service Sunday evening Rev. Dr. Lichter talked on the education of young children.

The installation of the officers will take place on the evening of April 2d.

TAX ASSESSORS' SALARIES.

Higher Figures Would Ensure a Better Valuation of Property.

Whole Plan by Which the City's Revenue is Raised Rests on a Wrong Basis.

To the Editor of The Daily News:

Dear Sir: In your issue of March 15 you published an article, signed by Mr. Frederick P. Garrettson, which opened again the question of tax valuations in this city, and the heavy contributions which thereby has to be made by this community to the state treasury. The question is one which deserves more than mere cursory consideration, and yet, as Mr. Garretson very tersely points out, the matter has been shelved and pushed aside annually for the past 20 years or more.

That gross inequalities in the real estate valuations of properties exist cannot be denied, but when one understands the principle n which these valuations have been arrived at, it is only to be wondered at that greater inequalities do not exist. If the system upon which the tax assessment of Newport is worked out were applied to a larger and more active real estate market, the faults of the system (which in my opinion are quite beyond the control of the tax assessors at present) would be shown up much more quickly, and more glaringly.

As at present managed, the Representative Council appoints three tax assessors, at a salary of $400 each, to take charge of the most important branch of the municipality's financial organization. Upon these assessors rests the task of devising a plan for raising the amount of money desired by the Council for the city's yearly requirements. The assessors are instructed to secure a certain specified amount, by the operation of taxation. Thus, if the city's need requires $500,000, the assessors are instructed to assess a tax which will yield from $500,000 to $520,000. This they proceed to do, by taking into consideration the total valuation of property (personal and real) as shown by their books for the previous year, then making allowances for places which have changed title during the year (and on which they can get pretty definite information as to values); new buildings are inspected and these add to the valuation, any improvements of an exterior value are also taken under consideration, and if any change in valuation has been brought to the assessors' attention and a change has been made, these also enter into their calculations.

The final total which is arrived at in this way naturally is as Mr. Garretson says, "a fictitious value." Why? Because many estates which have been in the present owners' hands, we will say, for the past 30 or 40 years, are not taken individually, under consideration each year, and the valuations which were placed upon them originally remain unchanged. As a matter of fact, even in Newport, where changes are slow, some change for the better or worse must occur in 30 or 40 years.

Where does the practical difficulty come in, if this condition of affairs is to be remedied? First and foremost, in the illogically low salaries which are paid for the tax assessors. Is it in reason to expect that any ordinary man who has to work for his living, could undertake the work of accurately assessing the value of each and every piece of real estate in Newport, and also arrive at a satisfactory figure for each individual personal property taxpayer, and accept as a fair remuneration for such services $400 a year? The only person who could undertake such a work at such a figure, would be some one of independent means, and it is hardly likely that the city could draw its tax assessors from such a class.

The answer to the question seems to me to be: Pay the tax assessors at least $1,200 each per annum, and suitable men (very probably the gentlemen now in office) will be found ready to attack the problem and produce a true and full account and valuation of all taxable property in Newport. If such a result could be obtained by this measure, how small the salaries of the three assessors ($3,000) would look beside the estimated loss, now being paid to the state, as indicated by Mr. Garretson, of $35,000 to $40,000 per annum.

In certain quarters of the city the tax values today are often very much at variance with the figures at which real estate sales are made, and this remark applies more to the large estates of from $20,000 upwards, than it does to places worth less than this figures.

That an increased tax rate would be inevitable from a re-valuation of the city almost goes without saying, and such an increase would, as in most cases of this sort, probably at once come hardest on the people with small holdings.

The appointment of a committee of five of the foremost business men of Newport, to take the question under consideration and report back to the Representative Council, might and probably would produce good results. If any change is made some of the present holders of real estate will have reason to growl if the rate goes up.

MRS. HOWE'S "HIPPOLYTUS."

Miss Anglin will fulfill her purpose to act the late Julia Ward Howe's unpublished tragedy of "Hippolytus" in Boston Friday for the profit of the Howe memorial fund and under socially significant patronage. Mrs. Howe wrote the play in the fifties; she destined it for Edwin Booth and Charlotte Cushman, and it was to be performed at the Howard Athenaeum. The Davenports were then managing the house, and since Mrs. Davenport coveted the part of Phaedra differences arose and the piece was never acted. Mrs. Howe was bitterly disappointed and put the play aside either for the theatre or for publication. In her last years she showed the manuscript to Miss Anglin, who was impressed by the whole piece and was ambitious herself of the part of Phaedra. Mrs. Howe was willing to have the tragedy acted; and now, in a way in memory of her, Miss Anglin will set it on the stage.

WALKER DECISION HELD.

Court Gives Parties and Their Counsel Opportunity for Reconciliation.

Arguments in the Divorce Case by Messrs. Barney and Sheffield.

Judge Baker presided in the superior court Saturday afternoon and arguments in the Walker divorce case were heard. There was a large attendance.

Mr. Barney spoke for Mr. Walker, reading from a carefully prepared argument. He said he would be indeed a poor specimen of humanity if, with as good as mother as he had, he should minimize the value of a mother; but there is another relation just as holy, that of father, and a child needs the care of a father. The unpleasant features, the complaining of petty annoyances, by petitioner, were the result of her lack of the care and society of father and brother, the development of only female surroundings. How many women are enduring for more than Mrs. Walker ever suffered, just to protect their children. The law by which the sins of the parents are visited upon the children to the third and fourth generation is the most terrible one.

Mr. Barney took up the charge of cruelty, divided into four specifications: It was not proved that Mr. Walker's disease was the result of anything he did after marriage. The charge that he thought of, talked about and associated with improper persons is not proven. The charge of neglect is not shown. A man brought up in the undemonstrative Puritan style of reserve doubtless did not give her little attentions.

It is not proved that he had improper relations. There is not a single scrap of evidence of improper acts with Mabel Corcoran. The letters in Miss Corcoran's handwriting amount to little. "We will have some good old times" may be language upon which a misconstruction may easily be put. Then there are two alleged copies which may or may not contain something which she wrote. The fourth letter is absolutely stamped as something doctored up for this case.

There is a difference of class, Mr. Barney said with vigor, between the Walkers and petitioner. There was never a whisper of scandal. Something more than surmise must be shown. Home, happiness, character, standing in the community, are serious things at stake for Mr. Walker.

Mr. Barney said the real reason of this case was stated when Mrs. Walker told of her need of rest, and the suggestion of separating the children, two to go to Mrs. Walker, senior, and one each to Mr. Walker's two sisters, one of whom is a suffragette. Mr. Walker said he was going to take the children, as he had done once before, and Mrs. Walker desired the children to go to her people. She was selfish, declared Mr. Barney. Whether or not Mr. Walker's course was wise, it was not cruelty. He would agree to anything except the taking of the children to her people. When she was advised that she could go and take the children, she went. She did not mind taking them from their father. Mr. Barney charged that the real complainants were the mother and sister of complainant. If the parties could be shut up on a desert island alone for 48 hours, the reconciliation so much to be desired would come.

One of the most unfortunate circumstances of granting this petition would be the separation of the children from the Walker family, so united, of such social standing, education, and diversified interests. Petitioner's family is a divided one, separated from their relatives, childless and man-less. Mr. Barney did not minimize the love and devotion of petitioner, but he claimed that Mr. Walker and the children were attached to each other. He spoke of the "poor, pitiful round robin" the children signed, which nearly broke Mr. Walker's heart. If the parties cannot resurrect sufficient affection for each other, and if love of children will not bring them together, they should be told that they cannot leave these children homeless, and all proper pressure of the court should be brought to bear to bring them together. A decision granting this petition is the destruction of all hope of a reconciliation.

Mr. Sheffield, for petitioner, said that for years it had been an unhappy home, and it is to be determined at the outset who is responsible for this. It is impossible to expect happiness or the proper bringing up of the children if the past state of affairs is resumed. The court must act much as a surgeon does. The wife has held the bond of affection together all these years; she has stopped now.

Mr. Sheffield called attention to the evidence of Mr. Walker as compared with that of Mrs. Walker; it contradicts itself and he has no explanation to offer. His statement about Miss Corcoran's picture is evidently false. Mr. Walker himself wrote of atrocities at Charleston. It was either true, supporting Mrs. Walker's contention that it was not a fit place for her, or it was false and written to keep Mrs. Walker away from there. There is no evi-

ADDRESSES ON INDIA.

Dr. Sumner R. Vinton Speaks to Men and Boys at Young Men's Christian Association.

Dr. Sumner R. Vinton of Boston, who is to lecture in connection with the women's jubilee series of meetings, addressed two large audiences of men and boys Sunday afternoon at the Young Men's Christian Association on the customs of India, her needs and her hopes.

In speaking to the boys he appeared in an Indian costume which added not a little touch of realism to his remarks. He began by telling several anecdotes peculiar to the country, and then showed in a natural way how the youths of India live and the kinds of athletic sports in which they engage.

His address before men was entitled "The Awakening of India." The speaker was introduced by Secretary Chaplin, calling attention to the coming jubilee meetings, after prayer by Rev. Gustavus A. Hulbert.

Dr. Vinton laid emphasis on the problems which confront the Christian worker in India, with reference particularly to the conditions existing in Burma. He told about the caste system and the great difficulty in trying to harmonize the Mohammedans and the Hindoos, the two great religious divisions, which are about equal in number. They furnish the great political problems, with which it can be hoped to cope only along the lines of Christian education, through the churches and colleges. That is why there is such a field for workers to help foster and build up the church. Christian churches have already been established in many parts of India by the natives and the missionaries are doing all they can to encourage the work and build them up.

Another big problem which confronts missionary work at the Far East is found in the variety of languages used. More than 200 different dialects are spoken and a movement is in foot to have the natives unite on one language. It is an immense task but, said the speaker, there is reason to fel that the effort has not been started in vain.

Having spoken at length on the problems of religion, sociology and of the different castes or classes, Dr. Vinton explained the origin of Buddhism and of the superstitious belief to which the men and women still cling. The work of the missionaries and the assistance of civilized countries is everywhere evident in India, in the hospitals, schools and churches. The people are gradually beginning to see that sanitary conditions are the best for them and are slowly moving towards the great awakening.

Another great educational agency there is the Young Men's Christian Association, the most helpful institution for young men. The student classes organized there for the young men who attend the government colleges are doing wonderful work along the lines of Christian education.

Dr. Vinton's remarks were supplemented with fine stereopticon slides.

A TALK TO CHILDREN.

Deaconess Phelps Speaks on Conditions in China at the Emmanuel Sunday School.

Deaconess Phelps of China, one of the missionaries sent out from this country by the Church Missions House of New York, spoke to the Sunday School classes of Emmanuel Church Sunday afternoon. Mr. John W. Wood, secretary of the General Board of Missions, who has also been engaged in the Chinese missionary field addressed the congregation in the evening on Chinese missions in general, with references particularly to the work of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

In her talk to the Sunday School Deaconess Phelps pictured the life of the children, especially the young women. Things are all topsy-turvy there, compared with this country; the men wear skirts and the women trousers, the women have their hair cut short and the men grow pig tails. The practice of binding the feet is one of the most cruel still maintained. During this painful period the girls are practically helpless, being hardly able to dress themselves and spending most of their time indoors. The young Chinese wife knows nothing but submission, in which her mother-in-law is the dominating figure. She spends much of her time gambling, and naturaly is ill tempered and disposed to quarrelling, owing to her miserable lot. One of her strongest consolations, however, she finds in the expectation and hope that she will some day herself be a mother-in-law, and have the right to exercise control and return the evils visited upon her.

Deaconess Phelps is guest of Mrs. Harold Brown.

Seventy-five young men and maidens of "ye anciente towne" of Newport will appear, the girls in old-fashioned short-waisted gowns, puffed sleeves, high back combs, lace berthas, beauty patches, silver-buckled slippers and turkey-tailed fans, and the young men in long waistcoats, knee breeches, swallow-tail coats, high choker collars and calico neckties. Aunt Polly will light her "taller" dips and bite her tuning fork for the "skewl" to begin. Jedediah, the dunce, will come in late and catch a lecture from "ye skewlmarm," when the fun will begin.

OFFICE 81 EVERETT STREET,

TWO WELL KNOWN MEN.

Death of Walter H. R. Jeter, the Musical Genius of the Family.

Pharmacist Cornelius O'Leary (Retired), Long Attached to the Torpedo Station.

Mr. Walter Hamilton Ryland Jeter, second son of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. F. N. Jeter, died at 8:45 o'clock this morning at the parsonage of the Shiloh Baptist Church, after a long serious illness, in his twenty-fourth year. He was well known in this community having been born here and attended the public schools.

The musical ability of the Jeters is well known, but Mr. Walter Jeter was the musical genius of the family. At a very early age he showed unusual aptitude for music, mastering the piano and violin, and later the organ. He was a composer of considerable merit, one of his best known compositions being "On The Chase." He was studious, thoughtful and religious, joining the church at the age of six years. He had traveled extensively and taken part in many prominent recitals with well known artists.

In December, 1909, he married Miss Mable Margaret Bruce of Washington, a teacher in the public schools of that city, the ceremony being performed by his father, Rev. Dr. Jeter. Soon after the marriage they returned to Newport, where they have resided with his parents ever since.

Pharmacist Cornelius O'Leary, U. S. N. (retired), died Sunday evening at his home on Narragansett avenue, from pneumonia. He was retired April 25, 1902, with the rating of chief boatswain, because of his long service and the failure of the law to provide a satisfactory rank for one having such a record. Mr. O'Leary, who was born in Ireland, entered the service when a youth and was retired under the law providing for the retirement of officers at the age of 62 years. Having seen more than 40 years of service, 37 years, 7 months and 24 days of which is credited to him by the Navy Department as enlisted man, and standing at the head of the list of pharmacists in term of service, it seemed only just that his rank should be increased in some way and much correspondence preceded the final action by the department.

For approximately 22 years prior to his retirement he served at the Torpedo Station, originally as druggist, but when the rank of pharmacist was available in the navy he was given this. He was not one of the originals with the institution of the Torpedo Station, but his service in the dispensary there was so long that it seemed as if the Station had lost one of its first settlers. Upon his retirement he received a considerable sum in back pay and immediately took a trip abroad to visit the place of his birth. He then returned to Newport, purchased a home and settled down to live in comfort.

He was one of the old-style men, always courteous and decidedly interesting, having a good memory and able to go back two generations in his tales of men and happenings. Of quiet manners he was always much the gentleman in dress and bearing. This winter he went to New York, where he formerly belonged, for a visit, as had become his custom, and there took cold which developed into double pneumonia. He was twice married and leaves a widow, but no children, and leaves a widow, but no children, and a large circle of friends in and out of the navy.

THE MAYOR AND THE STRIKERS.

[New York Tribune.]

Mayor Gaynor spoke with the voice of the city in expressing his indignation at the present express strike. The public has little patience with the expressmen for declaring another strike after so short an interval and for causes so inadequate. The mayor's advice to resume work and leave the trouble to arbitration was sensible and should have been accepted by the drivers. His promise now that the police department will in every way protect those who decline to strike is welcome.

THE CALVERT SCHOOL FAIR.

Despite the rather unfavorable weather, the annual fair held Saturday afternoon by the teachers of the Calvert School, Miss Eleanor L. Freeman principal, was successful. Beautiful aprons, one of which was sold on shares; home-made cake and candy, dolls, fancy articles, flowers and tea were sold. During the afternoon the Rogers High School orchestra played. Several of the aprons were given for the fair by a sister of Miss Annie Agnew, one of the Calvert teachers.
